DROP CHARGES AS SHEPHERD ACQUITTED

State's Attorney Will Ask No-Bill In Case Of Mrs. McClintock's Death

BULLETIN
INDIANAPOLIS, June 27.—The departed spirit of Benjamin Harrison, president of the United States nearly forty years ago, today laid his body beside that of his wife, placed in the tomb seventeen years ago, as a fulfillment of his dying request.

Just two days before the jury freed him, we got a message from a departed spirit who signed himself Benjamin Harrison, former president of the United States and my second cousin, that we have no cause to worry," Mrs. Hayden, now nearly blind, said today.

CHICAGO, June 27.—William D. Shepherd, acquitted last night of the charge of having murdered William Nelson McClintock, will not be brought to trial on a charge of having slain Mrs. Emma McClintock.

This became known today when the state's attorney announced that he would ask the grand jury to vote a no-bill in connection with the charges concerning Mrs. McClintock.

Shepherd, however, will have to appear in court next week, when the contest on young McClintock's will giving Shepherd the bulk of his estate will come up. Shepherd slept today with the lights out, for the first time in three months and thirteen days.

That—when the first flush of his victory, his winning of freedom through verdict of a jury on the bitterly fought charge of the state—that he had killed his wife, Billy McClintock, with typhoid germs to win the $1,000,000 McClintock estate—was his first thought.

Plan New Honeymoon.
In that first moment of his vindication Shepherd's thought was of his wife, whose loyalty throughout the black days of the trial gave him the courage to face the world and smile.

Plans for a "second honeymoon" were on their lips as soon as the confirming kiss of faith had been passed between them when the clerk in Judge Lynch's court read the "not guilty" verdict.

Tumbling in the wake of the love messages came plans for the future—and then:

"I want to sleep," said Shepherd. "For three months and thirteen days I've gazed at an ever-burning electric light, through the meshes of a cell, for three months that speck had been passing between itself into my eyes. My right eye seems to always see, even in daytime, a flaring image of a light globe. I want to sleep, with the lights out."

It took the jury six ballots to free Shepherd. From the first they stood 11 to 1 for acquittal, the man who stood alone being won over on the sixth ballot.

Then followed a demonstration for Shepherd and the glad greeting of "Julie."

The Shepherds are at the home of a friend on the south side.

Thrust into the background of their thoughts was another great legal battle that looms—the probable fight for possession of Billy McClintock's million dollars.

"The fight will go on," said Shepherd, in referring to the charge made by his counsel that there was a plot to convict him, "but first I want to rest and have a second honeymoon with the one woman in the whole world."

Open Casket's Huge Rock Lid For Last Time

SUMMIT, Cal., June 27.—Lifting the immense lid of a thirty-ton sarcophagus in Summit cemetery, friends of Dick Martin, western pioneer, today laid his body beside that of his wife, placed in the tomb seventeen years ago, as a fulfillment of his dying request.

Martin constructed the tomb from a granite boulder wrested from a high peak of the Sierras and studded sixteen miles to the cemetery in 1908, where he buried his wife.

Martin was 90 years old. He was born in Cornwall, England, and came to America at the age of 14.

$50,000 THEFT ON STREET IN DAYLIGHT

Z. R. Towery Loses Notes, Mortgages And Other Valuable Papers

In a daring daylight robbery, notes, mortgages and valuable papers worth more than $50,000 were stolen last yesterday from the seat of an automobile parked in front of 206 West Broadway, when Z. R. Towery of Kennedy & Towery, 203 West Broadway, left the machine for a few moments.

Negotiable notes totaling $23,000 which had been signed but a short time before were included in the loot. All of the valuables were in a locked portfolio which was seized by the thief who escaped unnoticed in the afternoon crowd.

Detective Lieutenant William J. Royle and Detective Sergeant P. C. Williams, who were assigned to the case by Chief of Police John D. Fraser, today notified banking houses and brokers to watch for the negotiable instruments.

Merchants have been warned to watch for Kennedy & Towery checks. A full book of blank checks bearing the company's imprint was also in the portfolio when it was stolen, according to Towery.

Police believe that the bandit knew of the acquisition by Towery of the valuable notes and mortgages, followed him in another machine and when the portfolio was left unguarded for an instant, grabbed it and escaped.

HISTORIC SITES VISITED BY PRESIDENT

Coolidge Greeted Heartily As Party's Long Line Of Automobiles Pass

By GEORGE E. DURNO
For International News Service.
SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., June 27.—A Coolidge "tour" of this section of New England was booked today as the principal attraction of President Coolidge's fourth day in the summer White House.

Early this morning the president, closely followed by a long string of motor cars, started out on a sightseeing trip through Boston and Cambridge, the first of a series of tours designed to cover many of the historic spots in the state the executive once governed.

Thousands of persons greeted the Coolidge party, en route to Cambridge, with handclapping and cheers. Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge smiled and bowed.

The party visited the old Mount Auburn cemetery in Watertown, where Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge inspected the graves of John Coolidge and his wife Mary, who died in 1691. Mrs. Coolidge, in a white ensemble, dress, coat, hat and shoes, removed weeds and grass from the grave, while her husband looked on sympathetically.

For the most part the entourage was composed of the newspapermen and friends who were especially invited to accompany the party by Mr. Coolidge himself.

Cambridge was chosen as the first point of call largely because the president is scheduled to make the principal address there on July 3 in celebration of the 150th anniversary of the assumption of command of the Continental army by George Washington.

The site of the Washington elm where this incident took place, the Cambridge common, near the site of the elm from which the president will speak, were the main points of interest.

Other tours that Mr. Coolidge has planned for himself and the correspondents accompanying him here, include the Charlestown navy yard, where the frigate Constitution is anchored, and Forts Andrew, Banks and Warren, stretched out along the coast line. These tours will be made aboard the presidential yacht Mayflower.

Tomorrow the president and Mrs. Coolidge will utilize the Mayflower for the first time on their vacation.

CONCORDIA, Kan., June 27.—Charles B. Davis, wealthy retired merchant, pleaded guilty today to assault with intent to kill, in connection with an attack by hired assassins on his wife last fall. He was immediately sentenced to prison. Davis will be a state's witness against seven Kansas City, Mo., gangsters he hired to have his wife done away with and who subsequently extorted his entire wealth from him by blackmail.

RENO, Nev., June 27.—Screams for help landed Clarence Cisco, negro, in the city jail today after he had been caught in the fangs of an iron roof, through which he had broken and was unable to extricate himself. Finger prints identified him as being wanted in Michigan as a parole violator, and where he had served time for burglary. He had also been arrested in Los Angeles, Stockton and San Francisco on similar charges, police said.

Valentino Will Escape Prison As Speedster

SAN LUIS OBISPO, June 27.—Rudolph Valentino, the screen's premier "sheik," will not be forced to languish behind prison bars as a result of his opening up the throttle of his big imported motor car and stepping it up to an alleged speed of sixty miles an hour on the state highway.

Valentino was to have appeared before Justice Donelson at Templeton yesterday in answer to a citation for speeding, but failed to do so. It was explained, however, that Valentino had turned the matter over to the Automobile club with instructions to settle. Judge Donelson said the usual fine would be imposed when the case came up and that Valentino was not in danger of being jailed.

Old-Time Stuff Now Being Pulled by Police Officers

By CAL FISHER
For Southland News Service.
Old Dobbin may be dead, but not forgotten. Two instances of law enforcement are being indulged in by police departments, showing that ordinances of 1905 vintage, designed for the days of the horse, are working overtime, as the following dispatches reveal.

LOS ANGELES, June 27.—A newsboy was fined $10 in police court here today and the offender granted probation, for tying his papers to a power pole in the downtown section. He was convicted under an ordinance twenty years old, which prohibited the tethering of anything to telegraph, telephone or power poles, for in the good old days the vaqueros tied their mounts to the handiest hitching post available, while they tarried in the saloons. The news vendor explained the wind threatened to blow away his stock in trade. But the law must be obeyed, he was cautioned by the judge.

SANTA BARBARA, June 27.—An ordinance regulating vehicles which transport passengers for fares, passed by the trustees here in 1888, is still in effect and will continue to be enforced unless proven unconstitutional, the police chief today informed cab drivers in ordering them from State street, principal business thoroughfare. The ordinance says nothing about the brightly painted motor cars used today, but refers to the cabs as "hackneys." It's an old law that has no use, the police chief believes. Complaints had been registered against the drivers soliciting trade.

FEDERAL RULE HITS CITY'S EMPLOYEES

Many In Glendale Utilities Department Face Ruin If Order Is Upheld

Employees of Glendale's municipally owned utilities face bankruptcy and municipal securities are endangered by a recent ruling of the United States treasury department requiring all employees of business enterprises operated and owned by the city to pay an income tax, and making the order retroactive to 1917, it was learned today.

Glendale employees of the water and light departments today are voluntarily subscribing to a fund and joining with employees of cities of seven western states to contest the action of the federal government.

A legal battle, to be handled through the Los Angeles law firm of Hewitt & Crump, will be started within the next two weeks in the U. S. district court, to be carried through for a final decision in the United States supreme court, it was said today.

The Farm Mortgage Bankers' association of America sees dangerous ground for municipal securities as well, in the fact that city officials and employees of publicly-owned utilities are not exempt from the federal income tax.

This ruling applies to the earnings of all utilities such as waterworks, street car, electric light and other systems. It is held that the public utilities are proprietary rather than governmental. The employees are not performing governmental functions in operating an electric light system or a waterworks, according to the federal ruling.

Other municipal employees and officials, engaged in purely governmental work, are exempt from the income tax.

A circular just issued by the association and in the hands of leaders of the opposition movement among the Glendale employees says:

"If the earnings of men employed by publicly-owned utilities are subject to federal income tax, it naturally follows that the interest on money invested in bonds of these same public utilities ought to be subject to federal income taxes."

Joining with Glendale, Los Angeles, Long Beach, Pasadena and other municipalities that operate utilities are other cities in

CAILLAUX PLAN ON FINANCE ADOPTED

French Chamber And Senate Commission In Night Debate Over Plan

PARIS, June 27.—The Senate today approved M. Caillaux' plan for restoration of French finance. By a vote of 273 to 11 it passed the bill reposing a financial directorship in the French financial ministry and authorizing an increase in currency of six billion francs. The measure passed the Chamber of Deputies yesterday.

By FRANK E. MASON
PARIS, June 27.—Finance Minister Caillaux' self-styled "audacious" proposals for the solution of France's money problems today received the approval of the Senate finance commission, shortly after it had kept the Chamber of Deputies up all night and won a heavy majority there.

The vote of the Senate commission was 9 to 5. In the Chamber, Caillaux' victory was 359 to 34.

Eleven members of the Poincare-Millerand group of the Senate commission did not vote. Caillaux's program included:

- 1.—The creation of a financial directorship vested in the finance ministry.
- 2.—A six billion franc increase in the currency.
- 3.—A new bond issue to absorb defense and treasury bonds not met with the increased currency.
- 4.—Limitation of the floating debt at the amount reached on closing the subscription to the new loan.

Capital levy, an issue the Socialists were reluctant to drop, was thrust into the all-night debate in the Chamber of Deputies in an eloquent address by Leon Blum, Socialist leader. It was defeated 349 to 210.

The jump in paper circulation, to meet immediate demands from holders of defense and treasury bonds maturing within the next six months was regarded as the point on which Caillaux' fight in the Chamber hung, but it received a supporting vote of 328 to 119.

It was stated at the navy department that one of the angles to be investigated was why Lieutenant Andrew Gordon, the prosecutor, did not introduce in evidence an alleged confession said to have been made by one of the accused nurses.

Pepall was removed from the cell he had occupied in the county jail for five months and rushed by automobile to the harbor by two Canadian officers, Police Inspectors Nourse and Miller of Toronto, who were determined to thwart a last minute effort on the part of Pepall to fight extradition.

USE RUSSIANS AS CREWS ON VESSELS

SHANGHAI, June 27.—Attempting to break the shipping tie-up which has prevented sailing of many British ships, the Canadian Pacific line today rushed a hundred Russian refugees to Hong Kong to serve as an emergency crew on the Empress of Asia. The Empress of Canada sailed for Hong Kong from this port after British sailors had unloaded her cargo.

The general strike remain unchanged here today, the shops remaining open but business was practically at a standstill owing to the panicky feeling that exists.

Protest Statements Made By Sen. Borah

HANKOW, June 27.—The American Chamber of Commerce here today adopted resolutions protesting the statement of Senator Borah on the Chinese situation as "calculated to embolden disruptive elements in China."

"At a time when the third international admitted is concentrating its attention on the far east with a view to creating order and chaos," said the resolution, "it is extremely ill-advised to give encouragement to young China which is directing its main efforts to stirring up anti-foreign riots rather than towards adequate protection to both Chinese and foreigners."

RICH WOMAN IS MARKED AS VICTIM OF GERMS

Plan To Get $50,000 From Her Husband Through Death Threat Fails

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27.—In the belief that there is more behind the $50,000 master extortion plot through which Bliss Y. Baker, University of California senior, and George Beeman, mysterious co-conspirator, hoped to win a fortune from C. D. Jackling, multi-millionaire copper man, police planned to grill the student again today in an effort to learn more of Beeman and to determine whether or not there were more in the plot than he has already confessed.

The fact that telephone wires were cut at the Hillsborough mansion of Mrs. Rudolph Spreckels, sister of Mrs. Jackling, presumably by a third conspirator, led police to believe that others were involved.

They were also told that the car of Mrs. Jackling was followed by a taxicab and a town car of expensive make when she left the St. Francis hotel in response to the fake telephone message that her sister had been injured.

Possibility that actual kidnapping was planned was being considered by police, despite Baker's claim that the plot merely involved getting her away from her apartments long enough to work a "bluff" game on her husband.

The mysterious Beeman, Baker claims to have last seen when he drove away in an automobile and left Baker waiting for the expected $50,000 at Uncle Tom's Cabin, a peninsula roadhouse. He has been hazy in his descriptions of the man he claims was the "master mind" in what was to have been a "perfect crime."

Colonel Jackling declared today that he would prosecute Baker to the full extent of the law and every effort will be made to arrest the university student's co-conspirators.

Baker was arrested near San Mateo after a police detective squad had trailed a taxicab there from San Francisco. In the taxicab was a metal box which Jackling said he had previously had delivered to a messenger, who, in turn, had delivered the box to the taxi driver. The box was supposed to contain $50,000 in small bills. It contained only newspapers.

Jackling said he was in his office yesterday morning when the messenger entered and handed him an envelope. Within was a letter informing Jackling that Mrs. Jackling had been kidnapped and would be tortured, inoculated with disease germs and killed if he did not immediately deliver to the messenger $50,000 in small bills.

TRAVELER ON BRINK OF VOLCANO

Lon J. Haddock Tells About Vesuvius, Rome, Paris And Points West

The following travelogue, written by Lon J. Haddock, prominent Glendale realtor now touring the world, was sent from Paris. The writer tells about visiting volcano craters, the Italian Riviera and Rome. Other articles will follow.

By LON J. HADDOCK
Written for The Evening News

In one day we have witnessed three of the world's greatest "blowouts." But we have attended only one of them. In their order they are Mounts Etna, Stromboli and Vesuvius.

Three days' run from Alexandria over the blue waters of the Mediterranean brought us abreast of the "boot of Italy, just as the dawn was breaking. Two hours later our gallant craft was nosing its way through the narrow straits of Messina, and Etna's snowy crest rose suddenly out of the mist to our port.

In the full effulgence of a perfect day we passed slowly up the Italian Riviera. On our right, amid its acres on acres of oranges and vineyards, and flanked by verdant hills down whose precipitous sides torrential streams came dashing, nestled Messina. Peaceful and serene as a poem it appeared, making it difficult to realize that only a few short months ago its people were fleeing in terror of their lives.

Now followed a glorious panorama of quaint Italian hamlets and villages, dotting the mainland, till suddenly Stromboli bulks out of the sea to our left. Stromboli is nothing more than a great mass of stone, barren of grass, tree or shrub. Its great sides are mantled with successive folds of lava, and the little fishing village at its base appears to be clinging on for its life.

Later in the day we glide by successively, Castellamare, Sorrento, and the island of Capri, with its famous blue grotto, and in the late afternoon we catch our first glimpse of Vesuvius, with its long streamer of smoke wrestling with the horizon. It was night when we docked at Naples but the view that greeted us at morn was one never to be forgotten.

It is related of a certain great poet that after his return to Naples after a long stay abroad, he knelt and kissed the ground. "I didn't," they would have said. "I was too busy trying to get out of there."

Beautiful Naples
Naples is beautiful. Wonderful! And here a goodly part of our ship's company disembarked. Several, however, remained on to Marselles, and a very few were intending to continue on to America by the same vessel.

At Naples you can buy a round trip ticket to Pompeii and Vesuvius, and this we did. An electric line runs out to Pompeii, which is only about ten miles distant, and Cook's is a combination electric and funicular line from the old site of Herculaneum to the summit of Vesuvius.

We wandered amid the ruins of Pompeii, striving to live over, in fancy, those stirring events, 70 years after Christ, that marked the destruction of this and its sister city—Herculaneum. In the museum are the skeletons, preserved in casts, of a few of the unfortunate victims who perished at the time, their attitudes bearing eloquent witness of the terror and anguish of their dying moments. And here it was, too, that the elder Pliny met his fate.

Car Climbs Grade
For the first time I learned that Pompeii was buried in ashes but that Herculaneum was engulfed not by ashes, but by molten lava! Finally, having worn ourselves out with walking we returned to the station for lunch and later took the return train for Vesuvius. You change at Herculaneum to a branch line with a single car, and now begins an ascent up a 55 per cent grade, through gardens and grape arbors, and, finally, the grapes and gardens are left below and we are traveling the rip-rap of stone masonry that was frenziedly thrown together to check the flow of molten lava in the last great eruption of 1906.

Stand at Brink

At an elevation of 4500 feet the last change is made to the "funicular," a one-car-going-up-as-the-other-comes-down arrangement, that drags you slowly up the cone of Vesuvius at an angle of—well, there isn't any angle. It's almost straight up, up, up, up you go! to the base of the very last tip where guides await to conduct you by a circuitous cinder path to the very brink of the great opening. And now you lean forward cautiously, for the last, final peek. And what a peek it is! Below yawns a chasm of unknown depth and fully three-fourths of a mile across, out of which at some time the entire top of the mountain has been blown, and rising out of the heart of this inferno, is a solitary cone with its living breath of smoke.

But, as you gaze in wonder and awe, suddenly a deep rumbling comes from out the depths. The earth quakes and trembles, the sky seems to reel, and with a detonation that sets your nerves tingling, a single huge column of smoke and cinders rises high into the air, and the faint splashing of water is borne to our ears as the great mass goes hurtling down into the fathomless depths, as this demon of the mountain gives vent to his overwrought feelings. This turbulence, however, is going on for centuries! Like the reaction from the presence of the pyramids the thought is overwhelming!

Touring in Rome

A half-day's run from Naples and we are in Rome. Rome is so well known to most of my readers that further mention of it would be commonplace. We visited all the "left-overs" of one foreign woman in our party ingeniously designated the ruins. "All roads lead to Rome!" and especially this year do all Catholic roads lead there. Thousands of pilgrims from the ends of the earth are there already, and hotel accommodations are not easy to obtain. What it will be later on when the tourist tide is at the full it is difficult to conjecture.

The Pope appeared to be fairly busy and as I, too, was somewhat pressed for time, we failed to get together. I hope nothing serious will result from our failure.

Travel conditions in Italy are very satisfactory at present, especially when a party of five or six people get together as the railroad companies make a practice, for a very small fee, of reserving a compartment, when so requested. Hotels, too, are very reasonable in price and clean in service, and everything possible is done to make one's visit pleasurable.

Florence and Venice

Florence, the birthplace of modern art, and then Venice, her picturesque canals, and her romantic gondolas! Lying in luxurious ease in our gondolas, lapped by the placid waters of the Grande canal, and fanned by the balmy Italian breeze, we listened, under the eerie light of the full spring moon, to the sweet voices of the serenaders as they ran the gamut of grand and light opera selections, accompanied by the tinkling of mandolins and guitars, and as the broker from San Francisco put it, "it was sure some night!"

We visited the marvellous glass factories and the lace industries on the various islands of this Venetian archipelago, gondoled through the labyrinth of canals, finishing up with a short cruise on the Adriatic and then reluctantly bade it all "good-bye," and set out for Switzerland, by way of Milan.

At the latter place we visited the great cathedral, said to be the next to Saint Peter's in area, and the finest example of Gothic architecture extant. Here, also, we visited the wonderful Monumental cemetery, undoubtedly the most beautiful cemetery in the world (although I wasn't dying to see it). It is a veritable pantheon of sculpture and art.

Enter Switzerland

We entered Switzerland by way of the St. Gothard (Go-tard) pass, via Lakes Como and Lugano, and arrived at Lucerne on Sunday afternoon, and in the midst of the Swiss annual festival of song. A procession miles in length, and made up of all classes of Swiss people in their picturesque Alpine costumes, and enlivened by bands of music and numerous choral societies paraded the streets all afternoon, and late into the night the music and merriment continued.

The Alps are high! And present prices in Switzerland harmonize with the altitude. Notwithstanding this, however, we found here, as elsewhere in our travels in Europe, that a goodly portion, yes, a very good goodly portion of the visiting tourists is made up of the "poor, impoverished" Germans. Germans seem to be everywhere, and they all appear to have plenty of spending money handy. What conditions are in the "Vaterland" I know only from hearsay, but certainly a great many Germans have all the money they need for travel and luxury. Somebody's lying; and it ain't me!

Paris at Last

Several days were spent amid the mountain fastnesses (I like that word fastnesses) of Switzerland, finishing up at the quaint old capital at Berne. From here we took the night express to the French capital.

C'est Paree! Paree de les boulevards! Paree de les bon marche! Paris, with her art, and beauty, and life!

The French national air is changing. It has already changed. It is no longer the Marseillaise; it is "The Yanks Are Coming!" You can hear their shiny American dollars "rum-tumming" everywhere, and in the same accommodating spirit in which the French raised the price of bar chocolate from one hundred to three hundred per cent per week when the American "dough-boys" came into their villages, so now the immediate section frequented by Americans, in Paris, accommodates its prices not to the purse strings, but to the gullibility of its American visitors.

The Americans seem burning with desire to spend "somebody's money" and the suave, little "side-kicks" of Napoleon have a veritable genius for assisting in the process, and so the orgy is on!

Ahead of Season

Fortunately we are here just ahead of the "open season," but already the "shooting" seems to be fairly good. My, what bagging the French will do this summer! Speaking of things international—the French cannot pay their war indebtedness to America. I never saw a man that didn't want to pay that could and—France doesn't want to pay! As to her ability certain learned gentlemen from Washington and other suburbs tell us this, that, or the other, which sounds very much like just plain bunk!

But if France is unable to pay then I can neither see, hear, nor understand. Her people are as well dressed, as well fed, and appear to have as much ready spending money as do the people of the United States; and from my superficial observation of them the average Frenchman is better off than the average citizen of England, and yet England, honorable old nation that she is—is paying her debts!

Fly to London

We are going to fly from Paris to London where I expect to spend a short season with the King. If he is too busy I shall spend the time chatting pleasantly with the Queen. If she, too, is busy—well, she'll be awfully disappointed.

The lady with the permanent wave is no more. That is, she is no more with us. The last I saw of her she was in a Mousky bazaar in Cairo, smoking an "essence of amber" cigarette, and planning her itinerary for Palestine, and wondering if the water of the Jordan were "soft" or

REALTORS DELAY OBNOXIOUS MOVE

Menace To Glendale Board Is Tabled In National Session In East

The National Association of Real Estate Boards has forestalled definite action on article 3 of the national constitution, dealing with the existence of boards in cities that annex to other municipalities, by tabling a proposed amendment without bringing it to the floor of the national convention, now in session at Detroit, Mich., according to telegraphic communications from Glendale delegates at the convention, received at the office of the Glendale Realty Board today.

W. L. Truitt and Peter Hanson, Glendale delegates, were instructed to oppose the amendment, which stipulates that all boards in territory already annexed in cities or taken into other cities in the future must cease to exist. The Glendale representatives were opposed to this clause on the grounds that it threatened the existence of the Glendale board in the event this city ever annexed to Los Angeles.

By tabling the proposed amendment in committee, final decision in the controversy will be laid over for a period of six months, according to telegrams from Truitt and Hanson. In the meantime it is expected that an amicable agreement will be reached by factions in the association, they reported. More than 150 California delegates are in attendance at the national convention, which closes today.

Returned Missionary Speaks At Meeting

Mrs. Don Nichols of San Dimas, district superintendent of junior work, was speaker and guest Thursday afternoon at the annual party given for mothers and members of the Light Bearers and Kings Heralds departments of Sunday school of Pacific avenue Methodist church. Mrs. Nichols, who is also a returned missionary from China, gave an interesting talk on work of the two departments and also showed many curios from European countries. Dean Krout was dressed in Chinese costumes to show styles worn by the little girls in China.

Mrs. James Bradley, superintendent of the Light Bearers and Mrs. Krout, superintendent of the Kings Heralds, were in charge of the affair. Fifty children and twenty mothers were present for the afternoon. Refreshments were served late in the afternoon.

BOOK 'COOL' ACTS FOR HOT SUMMER

Orpheum Patrons Are to Be Offered Good Bills In Next Two Months

It may be a hot summer ahead but the Orpheum theatre has booked many "cool" acts for the amusement seeking public during the coming warm months. Beginning next week Sophie Tucker, the empress of jazz, will grace the boards and will make the Orpheum the haven for downtown shoppers and the tired business man to get away from "Old Sol."

Following her will come Blossom Seeley with Bennie Fields in a brand new act. Harry Carroll is back in Los Angeles and will present one of his new revues. And not long from now will come that popular Brunswick recording artist, Isham Jones, and his band, together with Jane Green, purveyor of those "low down" coon songs. After looking at that line-up it seems like it won't be a bad summer after all down toward the Orpheum.

ARTIST TO RETURN

Miss Grace Lucile Ehlers, 615 East Chestnut street, is expected home the latter part of July. Miss Ehlers is touring the east states, singing with Harry Gray of this city. Four more engagements are booked for the season, and then Miss Ehlers plans to come home for a vacation and rest.

The New CHRYSLER FOUR

Walter P. Chrysler's Latest Achievement

Now Ready!

Walter P. Chrysler's full conception of what a four-cylinder car should be has now become a reality.

Mr. Chrysler announces the new Chrysler Four, companion car to the Chrysler Six. It is here, ready for your inspection.

Whether you are a car owner or not, by all means see this new Chrysler creation. Ride in it. Get to know the latest Chrysler achievement which the master car builder identifies with his own name.

It will amaze you, for it is our firm conviction that the new Chrysler Four represents a better and finer combination of power, speed, fuel mileage and charm of appearance than any other four in the world today.

For four years Chrysler-created products have steadily advanced to the very fore-front of the four and six-cylinder fields.

Chrysler engineering, Chrysler manufacturing quality and Chrysler value eclipsed all previous production records for cars that might be considered comparable.

Every step of that irresistible advance was part of the process in preparation for the production of the new Chrysler Four answering the insistent public demand for another Chrysler.

The basis for the beauty of the new Chrysler Four is the dynamic symmetry which Chrysler engineers were first to translate into beautiful motor car design in the Chrysler Six.

The wonderful riding qualities of the new Chrysler Four cannot be described. You must experience them to know what an advance has been made in the four-cylinder field. It is enough to say that a ride will amaze and delight you.

And when you ride you'll notice the absolute quietness of the four-cylinder engine, you'll find no rumble or tremors in the body of the car.

Here is a car you can truly drive all day without fatigue. It is hardly ever necessary to shift gears, except for starting from a dead stop. When shifting is necessary it is made clean and noiselessly by the matched transmission gears and easy clutch action.

There has never been the like of the new Chrysler Four at anywhere near its price. Be prepared for a great revelation.

HUGE REALTY DEAL IN KENNETH ROAD DISTRICT!

CITY TO SEEK ANTI-FIRE TROPHIES

Glendale to Be Entered In Ince Contest Along With Many Other Places

Glendale on July 1 will be officially entered in the Ince Pacific coast fire prevention contest with scores of other cities in the west in competition for the famous Thomas H. Ince trophy. It was stated today by Fire Chief A. H. Lankford.

In a statement announcing Glendale's entry Chief Lankford asked the co-operation of local residents in obtaining a reduction in fire losses through a campaign of fire prevention to extend throughout the year. Winners of the trophy will be announced at the meeting of the Pacific Coast Association of Fire Chiefs after the close of their year on July 1, 1926.

The Ince trophy is one much sought by municipalities throughout the entire west. Chief Lankford plans to carry the fire prevention campaign to the schools and before public meetings. Tentative plans also include the proposed erection of a giant clock at some prominent point in the city showing each day the ratio

LITTLE TOTS FROLIC AT PATTERSON PARK

Youngsters as Well as Adults Derive Much Pleasure From Pool Even If More Room Is Needed Badly

By EDITH Y. INGLE
 Of The Evening News Staff.

Patterson Park has indeed become a Paradise for Glendale's small tots, not to mention their seniors. From a scraggly vacant lot of weeds and sand has bloomed a veritable fairy bower all within a very few years. One need only look at the park itself and then at the adjoining vacant lot to realize what magic has been accomplished.

When the city sees its way clear to make the rest of the vacant land adjoining the park into a similar garden spot, then will all Glendale have a good sized park surrounded by charming homes which will be patronized more and more as the years go on. Possibly a street will be cut through at this point.

Guarded by stately cedars, the approach by a great round bed of canna, now in the full flaming glory of their varied reds and yellows, the swimming pool at the entrance to the park is overflowing with happy children, splashing, laughing, diving and swimming. Some are trying out the very first strokes, others able to master such complications as the jack-knife dive. The youngsters who disport themselves so happily in the water are at all times safeguarded by a nurse and a life guard, so mothers may have no fear in letting children who are old enough to go around Glendale

IMPRESS CITY EMPLOYEES IN FIRES

Street Department Men Are Made Subject to Call Owing to Brush Fires

Employees of the Glendale street department were today made subject at any time to the call of the fire department for emergency service during the period of extreme danger from prevalence of forest and brush fires.

When they are needed whistles will be blown by the Los Angeles Baskett Co. and the Glendale Laundry, and the siren at the Fox-Woodsum Lumber Co. will be sounded. Street department employees will assemble at fire department headquarters, station No. 1, Transportation to the fires will be provided by the department and by the street department.

Danger Is Severe
 Fire Chief A. H. Lankford said today that the danger from brush and grass fires at the present time is extremely great, especially in the hill country north of Glendale. The department will respond to calls from the Montrose-La Crescenta district and from the Verdugo Hills region, he said, because of the danger of fires starting there spreading inside the city limits.

At noon today the department had extinguished five rubbish and grass fires that had gotten out of control. They included a rubbish fire in the rear of the C. E. Leidorf store, 812 South San Fernando road; public service property near Glendale airport, brush fire; rubbish fire at the home of Mrs. Sherman, 316 East Ethel street; grass fire at Brand boulevard and Doran street and a grass fire at the home of Mrs. W. Y. Howeth, 1013 Western avenue.

PRESIDENT GROWS

"I have not changed. I am the same man I was a year ago," said President Coolidge to a magazine writer who wished to prepare a second study of the president's character and his methods of work after an interval of a year. But he is not the same man he was a year ago. Few of us are, especially men in power. We either grow or retrograde. It is hard to stand still.

Perhaps President Coolidge has changed as little as it is possible for any man in his position to change. He has not altered his opinion on a single political issue since he entered public life. His character, rooted in strong religious convictions, has not changed. But those in close touch with the man say his diffidence has disappeared since his election. It was inevitable that when the American people said so plainly that they wanted Coolidge for president because they believed in his integrity, his patriotism, and the government policies he advocated, that it should have some effect upon the man. It is easy to have faith in ourselves when others have faith in us. But there is no danger that the president's growing self-confidence will develop into egotism. He is not built that way.

NATIONAL FREEDOM

Close observers of conditions in China say the Chinese are not inherently anti-foreign. The anti-foreign riots in that country are in the nature of a protest against the activities of foreigners in China. Germany, Great Britain, Japan and Russia have ruled sections of China for years with an iron hand, and the United States has not been without guilt, either. This foreign rule has not been gentle, the Chinese have learned the power of revolutions, and they are at last resenting and trying to throw off foreign power. The Chinese have been a subjected race through the centuries and now that they have learned their strength they cannot be blamed for trying to establish a national integrity.

Foreign correspondents also point out that the uprisings in Morocco, Egypt and India have been due to the same causes, and not to the fact that those people are anti-foreign. America should be the first to sympathize with a people who desire national freedom.

USE THE PAINT BRUSH

Our annual loss from fire is startling, but it is estimated that it is far exceeded by the amount spent in replacing buildings ruined by rot and rust, which amounts to $1,500,000,000 a year. This is a big bill and almost as unnecessary as the fire loss, for many of these buildings could have been saved by the paint brush. The depreciation of a building through lack of care is slower and not so spectacular as burning, but the loss is just as great in the end. Decay is as sure as fire, though not so rapid.

In these days of high costs of building material and labor it is increasingly important to make buildings last as long as possible. To keep them in repair is the only way to justify the large amounts invested in them.

Many people keep their homes painted and in repair for appearance sake, and this is to be commended, but the preservative value of paint can scarcely be overestimated, and those who paint frequently are prolonging the lives of their buildings.

NO PARKING HERE

A visitor suggests that signs should be posted telling auto drivers where they may park, rather than where they may not. The suggestion is good in theory, but it might not work out in practice, for we have been brought up on "don'ts" and we should feel that we have a right to park any place unless specifically prohibited.

The modern mother, instead of eternally nagging her child with, "Now don't do this and don't do that," calls his attention to something he may do, and this is wise, because when a child hears "don't" so often he grows accustomed to the sound of the word and pays no attention to it. But he is going out into the world some time without his mother at his side to attract him away from forbidden things, so it is well that he should learn in childhood that some things are prohibited. Unless human nature takes a change for the better, we can never get away entirely from the "Thou Shalt Nots."

RESEARCH DISAPPOINTING

Many a man, tracing back his family tree, has stopped when he found a gallows hanging from one limb. Someone suggests that the human race should forget about its genealogy, for research along that line is never very satisfactory. Whether it leads to the monkey or the rib, there are sure to be found some ancestors of whom we cannot be very proud. Even those of us who have very decided opinions about the origin of the race feel that the tenets of religious and social life are not bound up with futile argument. No matter how the Tennessee case is decided, nothing will be changed, neither will the cause of Christianity be advanced. A New York minister said the other day, "The essential thing, the central, the eternally true and changeless thing in the Christian religion is not a creed, nor yet a book, but a person and a life."

THE POOR BURGLAR

A new argument has been advanced by the opponents of prohibition. It seems that crime is more glaring since the passage of the eighteenth amendment, and the reason is this: In the old days, when a burglar wanted money, all he had to do was to pick the pockets of drunken men until he got as much as he wanted. When the drunkard sobered up he had no knowledge, or at least no recollection, of the man who victimized him, so he said nothing about it. But now that sobriety is more general the poor burglar has to take greater risks. He robs homes and holds up automobiles and bank messengers and the like and is more often apprehended.

From the standpoint of everyone but the burglar and his victims, this would seem to be an argument in favor of prohibition, but perhaps the old way was better. At least the sober were protected.

MARBLE TIME

The Way of the Spider

By DR. FRANK CRANE

When a man wants to cross a chasm he builds a bridge.

When a spider has a gap to cross he spins a web out of himself.

He spins a fibre until it is long enough to swing him over the desired interval.

So every man's success in attaining any given point is largely due to what he has behind him, to the facts that he has already made possible.

It is not education nor ability alone that determines a man's progress, but it is his record.

You will notice whenever you go to a firm to apply for a job that they want to know what your record is, what you have done. Man has no wings to take him to the desired object, but he must spin a bridge out of his own doings, out of himself.

Any man can make promises, any man can have hopes, but these are not noted. The thing which is stable and able to be depended upon, if we would get to a desired object, is our record, what we have done.

Character is a thread that we spin within ourselves. It does not consist in advantages that someone else has given us, nor a knowledge that we have learned from someone else.

A resolution that contains nothing in it practically to be done now is of no value.

A resolution that is carried out is of no great value.

No man can get away from his record. It is the best and the worst thing about him. Just as a criminal is tracked and captured by his record, so the heights are scaled by those who have the proper record.

When the Bible tells us that the house which is founded upon a rock shall not be moved, we often misunderstand what the rock means. We ordinarily think that the rock is the sayings of the Master, whereas the rock is the having done those sayings.

A man who builds his success upon his record is a man with a house founded upon a rock. When the storm comes he shall not be moved. Copyright 1925, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Horoscope

Once more kindly stars rule today, according to astrology. Mercury and Jupiter are both in benefic aspect.

Whatever concerns publicity and advertising is subject to the best possible direction of the stars.

Between big business and the newspapers there is to be closer co-operation, if the signs are read aright, and authors are to be most fortunate.

Again the rise of a new school of American writers who are to produce real literature is prophesied.

This should be a lucky time to look into one's own financial affairs, to settle debts and attend to banking responsibilities.

Banks are to prosper as never before, if the planetary government is rightly discerned, for they will guide many lines of business.

The luminaries and Mercury in the midheaven at Calcutta presage an active time that will be beneficial for government affairs.

Under this rule of the stars there may be an increased ambition to follow newspaper work or writing in one form or another. Many more applicants for places in journalism will appear than in any previous season, it is foretold.

Return of interest in spiritual matters is prognosticated and the church as well as many new cults will flourish.

Law enforcement is to assume even more importance than formerly, owing to an occurrence of dramatic and even tragic character which will take place this midsummer, it is forecast.

Discredit for an official high in the federal service is indicated in the reading of the stars.

Both the Atlantic and the Pacific coasts will reveal extraordinary activity in shipping, it is foretold.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of busy, successful year. Prosperity in financial matters is strongly forecast.

Children born on this day probably will be endowed with fine intelligence and with ability to win in any vocation they may select.

Today's Poem

SONG.
How many times do I love thee,
dear?
Tell me how many thoughts
there be
In the atmosphere
Of a new-fall'n year,
Whose white and sable hours appear
The latest flake of Eternity:
So many times do I love thee,
dear.

How many times do I love again?
Tell me how many beads there are
In a silver chain
Of evening rain.
Unravel'd from the tumbling
main,
And threading the eye of a yellow
low sea where do I love again.

Timely Views

The visit in the United States of Sir Eric Geddes, head of the Dunlop concern and Britain's "rubber king," if there is one, has been significant in view of the recent publicity given to plans of American rubber interests and Henry Ford to break British control of the production of para, or raw rubber. In New York it is taken for granted that Sir Eric is here to see how seriously the British monopoly is threatened.

Sir Eric's career has been a varied one. Born in 1876 in India, the son of Auckland Campbell Geddes of Edinburgh, he was educated at Oxford Military Academy, the Murchison Castle school and other institutions.

In 1916 he was made deputy director-general of England's munitions supply; he was director-general of military railways and inspector-general of transportation in 1917; in 1918 he was member of the imperial war cabinet and member of the cabinet from 1919-21. He served for the navy as a member of the board of admiralty, holding the rank of major general.

In the shift of naval commanders during the world war Sir Eric became first lord of the admiralty; was minister without portfolio in 1919; minister of transport from 1919 to 1922; president of the Federation of British Industries from 1923 to 1924; president of the Association of Trade

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNAIRD

An English professor is coming over to edit a dictionary of American English or, more properly, the American language.

Yankee professors, after refusing to admit these many years that there is such a thing as an American language, have happened upon the amazing discovery that there is one after all, and are bent now on isolating and imprisoning it in the marble walls of lexicography.

Ambrose Bierce, himself a master of English, satirically defined a lexicographer as "a pestilential fellow who, under the tense of recording some particular stage in the development of a language, does what he can to arrest its growth, stiffen its flexibility and mechanize its methods."

"For your lexicographer, having written his dictionary, comes to be considered as one having authority," whereas his function is only to make a record, not to give a law.

"The natural activity of the human understanding having invested him with judicial power, surrenders its right of reason and submits itself to a chronicle as if it were a statute."

"Let the dictionary (for example) mark a good word as 'obsolete' and few men thereafter venture to use it, whatever their need of it and however desirable its restoration to favor, whereby the process of impoverishment is accelerated and speech decays."

"On the contrary, the bold and discerning writer, who recognizing the truth that language must grow by innovation if it grows at all, makes new words and uses the old in an unfamiliar sense, has no following and is tartly reminded that 'it isn't in the dictionary' although down to the time of the first lexicographer no author had ever used a word that WAS in the dictionary."

Bierce recalls the golden prime and high noon of English speech; when from the lips of the great Elizabethans fell words that made their own meaning and carried it in their very sound; when a Shakespeare and a Bacon were possible, and the language now rapidly perishing at one end and slowly renewed at the other was in vigorous growth and hardy preservation, the lexicographer was a person unknown, the dictionary a creation, which his Creator had not created him to create.

Don't be afraid to use a picturesque, unstilted, effective word regardless of whether it is in the dictionary. If it's a good word, it'll be there eventually.

And if you converse in the tongue your neighbors understand, abandon the idea you speak English. American is your language.

Who's Who

Tax-exempt securities and provisions of the present revenue laws which set up an "economically unsound basis of surtaxes," were picked out by Garrard B. Winston, undersecretary of the treasury, and held up recently as two of the main factors in narrowing the margin on which the credit of American business rests.

Winston, whose statements are tantamount to a pronouncement of the Mellon program, asserted flatly that taxes must be reduced if prosperity is to continue.

He estimated the total of outstanding tax-exempt securities at $13,000,000,000, and prophesied the figure would be over $15,000,000,000 before "any constitutional amendment could possibly be made effective."

Although taking Congress to task for its repeated refusals to reach the abuse of tax-exempt securities, Winston declared it beyond the power of practical legislation to eliminate all unfavorable discriminations of the federal tax laws. The loopholes for the rich, he asserted, are so many and varied that any attempt to stop up all of them "would simply put business in a strait-jacket and make it unable to move."

Winston's talk brought quick results. Immediately after he had finished, the association, by resolution, went on record in favor of speedy revision of state and federal revenue laws, including inheritance taxes.

The resolutions call for such changes "as will protect our business interests and our citizens against what might amount to confiscation of property and will make less attractive investments in non-taxable securities of funds in which otherwise would be utilized for promotion of our commercial and industrial activities."

Winston spoke of taxation from the viewpoint of its effect on credit. He pointed out that the merchant is hit from two directions in that he has to pay the tax himself and at the same time sees his receipts lowered because taxes have reduced the purchasing power of his customers.

Record Building Year In Southland Assured

With building activities in Southern California showing an increase of approximately four per cent over the corresponding period of last year, it is indicative that 1925 will be a record year in building, according to the Southern California Chapter, Associated General Contractors of America. Los Angeles June building permits promises to break all records of former June volume.

While Southern California is basking in an era of prosperity in regard to building activities, the increase over last year's business is general throughout the United States, according to reports from eastern building centers. The twenty-five leading cities, including greater New York, showed a gain over May of 1924 of twenty one per cent. Detroit's increase was one per cent; New York, nine per cent; Chicago, twenty-five per cent; Philadelphia, thirty-two per cent, and Los Angeles, eighty-nine per cent.

Law Affecting Brokers To Be Effective Soon

The new real estate law amendments adopted by the last legislature go into effect July 24, ninety days after the adjournment of the legislature, according to a statement issued by Freeman H. Bloodgood, chairman of the legislative committee of the California Real Estate association.

The amendments bring business (lease) brokers under the provisions of the license law. Any and all persons who act as solicitors, or listing agents for real estate office must have a salesman's license. The third amendment makes it a misdemeanor to sell real estate without a license from the state.

Realtors Get Ovations On Journey to Detroit

Advices received from the California delegation at the eighteenth annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards which met in Detroit this week, indicate that the trip aboard the realtor's special train was hugely enjoyed. The California train was warmly received at all stops, and ovations were accorded the realtors and the famous San Francisco Real Estate board glee club, which sang the glories of San Francisco and California across the continent. The realtors cast aside all business cares in full enjoyment of the pleasures of traveling in company.

The train left San Francisco at noon June 18, after an automobile tour of the city, arriving in Salt Lake City on June 19, the Californians were warmly welcomed and entertained by the realtors of that city. A two hour automobile ride was enjoyed. The party was increased by nine at Salt Lake City, those who joined including the president of the Utah Realty board, and the attorney general, who will attend the conference of real estate commissioners. The combined delegations numbered eighty four persons.

The entire day of June 22 was spent in Chicago, where the Chicago Realty board acted as host, following the usual custom of that hospitable board. After a day of sightseeing and other pleasures the delegation had a dinner and theatre party. They left the city at midnight for a through trip to Detroit.

LOS ANGELES COUNTY SHOWS HUGE GROWTH

More Than 3,000,000 People Now Reside In Territory, Is Estimate; Figures On Cities, Various Communities

By GIL A. COWAN
For Southland News Service.

LOS ANGELES, June 27.—Census figures in 1930 will show more than 3,000,000 people enumerated in Los Angeles county, or more than half of the expected 6,000,000 population of the state of California! This statement is not so amazing today as it might seem, for the writer casually inquired of Hugh Pomeroy, a resident of Glendale, who is secretary of the Los Angeles Regional Planning commission, what his guess on population was today for the county's population.

Quick as a flash, he replied, "Three million," and he has to use that arbitrary figure now because projects under way will not be complete until that number of persons must be cared for. The planning commission cannot work without vision, but the forecasts must coincide with actual growth.

Forgetting Secretary Pomeroy's figure for a minute, let us analyze the estimated population in the various parts of Los Angeles county today so as to better realize what tremendous strides are being made without much ado.

Remarkable Growth
First of all, Los Angeles city, including its far-famed Hollywood, the San Fernando valley annex, the harbor district comprising San Pedro, Wilmington and Terminal Island, not to forget Sawtelle and several more recently annexed communities, totals no less than 1,250,000 if all noses were counted.

Los Angeles really doesn't realize the tremendous growth within its bounds because of the scattered effort, particularly in the San Fernando valley where thousands of people have been added in the last six months. On Terminal Island, for instance, in the harbor, there are 7000 residents, nearly 5000 of whom are engaged in the fishing

Spend $70,000,000 In County During Year

The building program for Los Angeles county government for 1925 totals the tremendous sum of nearly $70,000,000 of which the flood control development represents half. Sanitary sewer projects, for which bond issues were recently voted, represents another $17,500,000, while the remainder of this amount will be expended for road construction and improvement of hospital facilities.

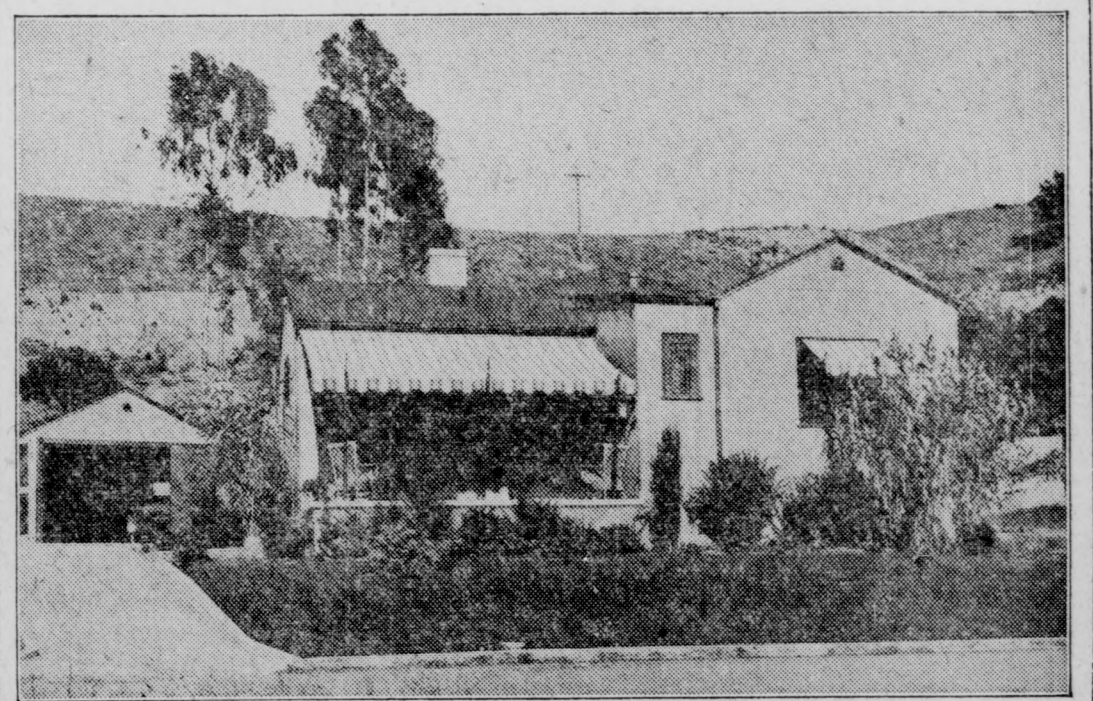

Work has already been started on the Pacoima dam, which involves an expenditure of almost $2,000,000, and the Santa Anita canyon reservoir and dam project, involving expenditures aggregating about $600,000, is well under way. With these two flood control projects under way, the chief flood control engineer, J. W. Reagan, is devoting his time to preparing plans for the other reservoirs and dams to be constructed under the $35,500,000 bond issue for flood control. The San Gabriel reservoir is said to be the largest project included in the program. This project will cost $25,000,000.

National Realty Chief Will Tour California

The itinerary of President Gilbert Edwards of the National Association of Real Estate Boards for his California trip will be arranged by the California Real Estate association following the Detroit convention. Edwards will visit the state October 5 to 15 and attend the Fresno convention. He plans to visit some of the realty centers and already has received invitations from San Diego, Long Beach, Oakland, Santa Barbara and Sacramento.

The national president's trip will be made by automobile and his itinerary will be arranged by the state association to afford him a splendid insight into the resources of California.

boast of a total greater than 150,000.

Then there are the Crescent Bay beaches, including Santa Monica, Ocean Park, Venice, Del Rey, Manhattan, Hermosa and Redondo beaches and the Palos Verdes section with no less than 125,000, and growing fast.

Exclusive of the Crescent Bay district and west of Los Angeles you will find Palms, part of Culver City outside of Los Angeles, Beverly Hills and Westwood communities with anywhere from $50,000 to 75,000, although that figure is a little ambitious perhaps.

Glendale and Vicinity Immediately north of Los Angeles there is Glendale with 65,000, Burbank with 15,000 and the Verdugo Hills with another 15,000 in La Canada, Montrose, La Crescenta, Verdugo City, Tujunga and Sunland, making a total close to 100,000 in that segment of the county.

And here is where you get a surprise! The Belvedere section, east of Los Angeles, with a score of small community centers has over 50,000 population and is one of the big problems in the unincorporated area extending along Whittier boulevard, the most traversed highway in the state.

Whittier, Pomona, Montebello, El Monte, and scattered communities further east, including Claremont, Chino, Downey, Norwalk, Puente, among the many, bunched together add another 100,000 and more.

Then there are sizable towns like Inglewood and Huntington Park to the south of Los Angeles that have more than 50,000 people all told, living in their confines.

Then take the scattered communities like Newhall, Saugus, Palmdale, Lancaster, Chatsworth, Girard and the farming districts with their hundreds of homes, and the census will show upwards 100,000 additional.

There's Tourists, Too There you have over 2,250,000 listed right now, to say nothing of the 200,000 tourists reported in the southland this season. Accepting these estimates as authentic with the closing of the year and a very normal and modest increase of 10 per cent annually in the four years, 1926, 1927, 1928 and 1929 there is not the slightest reason to doubt that the actual population of the one big county will be approximately 3,300,000.

And allowing a 10 per cent difference in estimated total and the census figures, a net of 3,000,000 population will result. Based on school fund apportionment at the present time, Los Angeles county will show 50 per cent of the population of the state, which will give California a total of 6,000,000 population as compared to 3,426,536 in 1920.

Because of more rapid growth, California will outstrip Texas, Massachusetts and Michigan. This state will follow New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Ohio in the order named, as fifth largest in the Union.

Prosperity and Progress Los Angeles will jump from tenth to fourth place in the list of the largest cities, exceeded only by New York, Chicago and Philadelphia.

California also will have in addition to San Francisco and Oakland in the list of 100 most populous cities the names of Long Beach, Sacramento, San Diego.

Pasadena and Glendale with a possibility of Fresno and San Jose included, it would appear from comparative figures and estimated growth.

That tells the story of prosperity and progress and future dominance for California that propaganda cannot destroy, for the proof exists and safe allowances have been made in checking and assembling these figures, as well as in estimating the increase.

Vast Wealth Increase In Southland Monthly

New wealth producing records are being established by nearly every community in Southern California, according to a survey completed by Emanuel Cohen, vice president of the Hellman Commercial Trust & Savings bank, Seventh and Spring streets, Los Angeles.

"Los Angeles and vicinity are growing richer at a rate in excess of $100,000,000 a month," the survey asserts.

Assessing the months of April, May and June will establish a record as the period of greatest revenues in the section's history, the survey adds.

"Not only is wealth being created in record amounts but the wealth producing enterprises of mankind are also being rapidly increased, assuring a continuation of the money flow into this section from other parts of the world. "Industrial progress is marked by a number of rapidly expanding manufacturing concerns. Fabricated articles are being shipped from here to Utah, Nevada, Arizona, New Mexico, and Mexico in substantial volume. Gross sales in excess of $10,000,000 monthly are estimated by manufacturers of soap, furniture, steel products, building material and other factory products. This trade has been built up in recent years and with favorable rail and water transportation backed by suitable climate, labor conditions and favorable locations, the trade is certain to be an ever increasing factor in the progress of this section."

Law for Realtors New Feature for Magazine

The legal requirements necessary to earn a real estate commission is the leading topic under the legal department of the California Real Estate magazine, beginning with the July issue. The first article is by Herbert M. Harwood, instructor in real estate, University of Southern California, and consists of excerpts from a lecture delivered by William Brown, a Los Angeles attorney, before students in the class in general real estate in the university.

From issue to issue the California Real Estate magazine will carry comments on legal decisions affecting real estate, and eventually this department will become the most widely read part of the magazine.

Among the contributors to this department will be Herbert M. Harwood, William Brown, the attorney; also Attorney Carlos G. White, representing the Oakland Real Estate board; Freeman H. Bloodgood, chairman of the state association legislative committee; Frazier Q. Reed, chairman of the standard forms committee, and others prominent in the association work. Articles will be sought from time to time from the attorney general of the state, and the state real estate department.

MONTROSE NOTES

MONTROSE, June 27.—Beloved of the entire community, Robert Ingells, son of Mrs. Florence Ingells, was laid to rest yesterday afternoon in Grand View Memorial cemetery. Services in the community were closed during the funeral services, which were held in the Durr undertaking parlors of Montrose. Masses of flowers covered the casket. Everyone knew Robert or "Bob" as the boy with a smile, who always had a jolly word for those whom he met on his daily rounds. It was a great shock to the community when news of his death came, as the boy had been sick only two days.

Special music was arranged by Mrs. C. Bickel and Mr. MacDaniel of the La Crescenta Community church, of which Robert was a member. The services were by Rev. Durr of the Montrose Methodist church, assisted by Rev. Clifford Jones of the La Crescenta church. Flowers were sent from every organization in the valley, including the Women's club. Pallbearers were Kenneth Wesson, Gregg Haskins, Willis Helmer, Robert Potts and Donald Caskey.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wellington and son John, accompanied by Mrs. G. Smith, mother of Mrs. Wellington, motored to Topanga canyon yesterday, where they will spend the coming week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Turk of "Seek No Further" are entertaining as their house guest Miss R. G. Traub of Cleveland, Ohio. Miss Traub is the niece of Mrs. Turk, and arrived in time for the opening of the new Women's clubhouse.

Mrs. A. B. Cochran is entertaining as her house guest her brother, James Armstrong, of the diplomatic service. Mr. Armstrong, who is a graduate of Leland Stanford, saw service in the late war with the 11th engineers as captain. He has been stationed as resident consul in London since the war, this being his first visit to America following his departure for the war. Armstrong is accompanied by his wife and child.

Sparr Heights Community house will be the scene of an old-fashioned box supper party tonight when Richard B. Troutner, second vice-commander of Verdugo Hills post, No. 288, of the American Legion, will expect every good cook in the valley to pack a full dinner basket with good things. Don Urquhart will auction the baskets, after which each purchaser will have supper with the person whose name the basket bears. An espe-

AT VERDUGO CITY

VERDUGO CITY, June 27.—An old-fashioned get-together party was held Thursday night in the Verdugo City auditorium by the Verdugo City Association of Commerce. Guests and neighbors enjoyed playing bunko, whist, five-hundred and also dancing. Ice cream, cake and punch were served by the committee on arrangements who were W. Scully, E. Dwyer, G. Hansen and Mrs. G. Hansen. Special music for the evening had been procured by Harry Fowler, Harold Hart, accordionist of Pasadena, playing a number of old-fashioned square dances which were enjoyed.

Actual building construction will start next week on the new Fowler-Brough building to be erected on the southeast corner of Honolulu and Los Angeles avenues. The foundations are being laid at present. The Brombacher Iron Works of Los Angeles will supply the iron and steel for the building, Mr. Brombacher being a resident of Verdugo City.

Jennings Young, owner of the Young's service station on the southwest corner of Honolulu and Los Angeles avenues, is having plans drawn for his new garage service station which will probably be constructed of brick to conform with the blocks on the other two corners. Young states he will also have a large show room for cars. Two different firms are negotiating at present for the use of the room which will face on the Honolulu side of the building.

PIG CROP LARGE

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 27.—The Illinois pig crop is going to be big this year. Hog losses from cholera have been light and litters of young pigs are noticeably larger than usual.

cially fine program has been arranged, one of the attractions being George Hansen, who will be remembered as King Tut in the Legion vaudeville show, and also as the tramp in Si Slocum's Country Store.

A Legion orchestra will come over from Pasadena to give several numbers. Songs and readings by local artists will help entertain the guests. Proceeds from the affair will be used in completing the post house. Punch and coffee will be furnished by the committee in charge.

Legionnaires who enjoyed the late outing at Catalina island were Ben Wirt, Don Urquhart and Richard Troutner.

Beware of Him!

Many instances have come to light recently of swindles cleverly carried out by fly-by-night contractors. In nearly every case he has secured the contract because of his exceptionally low bid, has collected from the owner before paying for labor or materials—and then skipped away. When this happens, the labor and material bills become liens against the property. They must be cleared up by the owner before he can claim his home, title clear.

Louisiana Canal Opens Under U. S. Ownership

NEW ORLEANS, June 27.—The United States government has completed the purchase of the last privately owned canal along the inland canal route which runs between New Orleans and Texas. The purchase price of the canal between Lockport and Bourge was $84,000. This opens a toll-free route connecting all southern Louisiana parishes and making them accessible to the Mississippi barge line which it is expected will be run eventually to Brownsville, Tex.

Realty Business Is on Upgrade In State

Since the first of the year more than sixty five of the California local realty boards have renewed their memberships on the 100 per cent three-way basis, according to an announcement by the California Real Estate association made public today.

A few boards in sections where the real estate market is not especially active, are sending in their dues from time to time, but the widespread renewals, the association said, indicates a general improvement in the realty business over the state.

"More boards and members had renewed their allegiance to the California Real Estate association during the first six months of 1925, than for the corresponding period in any other year," the association announced.

"The march of membership is well on the way to 3,000 brokers for the current year, and it is probable that the high water mark of 3,100 established last year will be eclipsed."

TRACTION DEAL MADE

CLEVELAND, O., June 27.—The Northern Ohio Traction & Light Co. has arranged with the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad to build a track along the latter's right-of-way through Garfield Heights, Maple Heights and Bedford. This will enable the traction line which operates cars from Cleveland to Akron, Gaston and Barberton, to take up its tracks along Broadway avenue and relieve it of paying maintenance in the villages through which it now passes.

State Harbors Board Is Sued For $500,000

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27.—Charging infringement of certain of their patents in the construction of docks and wharf buildings, the Dock & Terminal Engineering Co. of Cleveland, Ohio, has filed suit for $500,000 damages against the state harbor commission in federal court here.

ROSE IS CHURCH RENT

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 27.—One of the most peculiar rents known to the real estate world has just been paid at Manheim, Manchester county, near here. The Zion Evangelical Lutheran church paid its annual fee of one red rose. The land was transferred to the church in 1772 by Baron William Stiegel with a provision for payment of a rose annually if demanded.

Many Realty Students Have Become Alumni

During the past few weeks realty classes have been holding their commencement exercises under the auspices of the University of Southern California and the California Real Estate association, according to an association announcement. Several hundred certificates of graduation have already been issued to realtors. The student must complete satisfactorily the twenty weeks course given by the university before he is entitled to receive the certificate.

The average age of the realtor who completes the course is well over 30, and in a number of cases men past the age of 60 have proved apt students, and are enthusiastic in the work.

Classes will be conducted by many of the boards again for 1925-26 and the new educational program based upon the experience of the past two years will soon be announced by the California Real Estate association and the University of Southern California jointly.

GLENDALE STORE IS PRIZE WINNER

Newton Co. Window Display Is Given State Honors In Picture Contest

A June bride electrical appliance display in the window of the J. A. Newton Electric Co., 154 South Brand boulevard, has been awarded third prize in a statewide contest, according to word received by Newton this morning from the California Electrical Bureau at San Francisco. Four members of the San Francisco Advertising club were the judges in the contest naming the Glendale concern's window display third best in the state.

Photographs of June bride windows from almost every city of any size in California were entered, according to the letter. The judges had great difficulty in deciding upon the winners although all agreed on the Newton display for a share in the honors. A cash prize accompanies the award.

Many Saw Display While the June bride display was in the J. A. Newton store window during the early part of June, many shoppers were attracted by its striking effectiveness. The window contained a life-sized model of a bride viewing her electrical wedding gifts. Words of greeting to the bride which were contained on cards attached to the different gifts drew much attention and formed one of the strong points of the display, according to the judges.

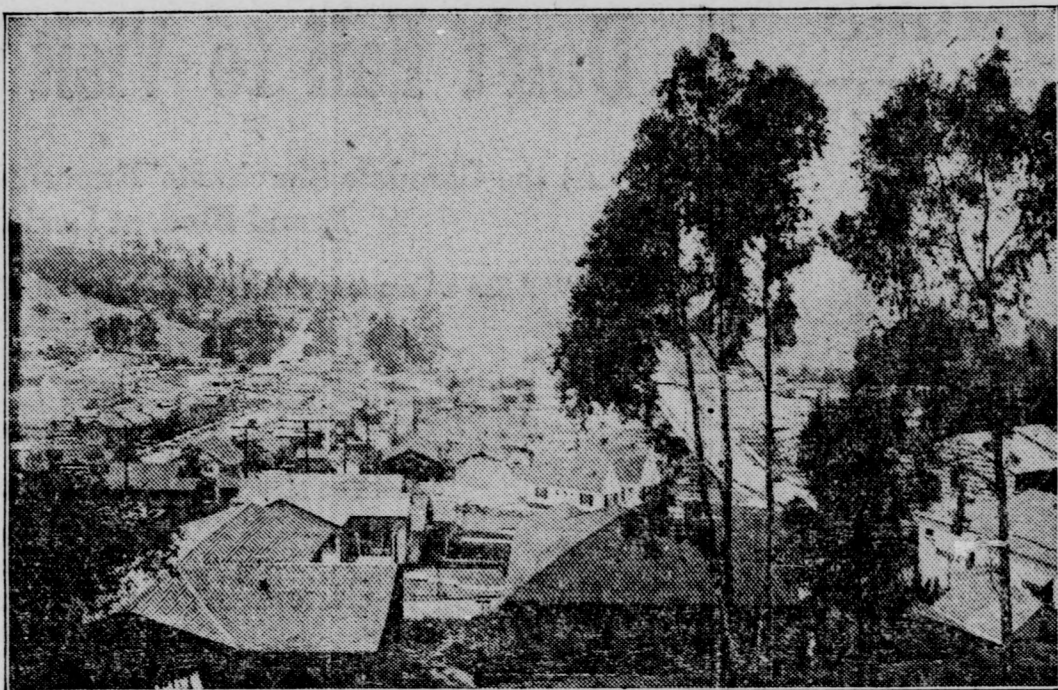

Report Realty Sales For Last Two Months

Two hundred and twelve thousand and three hundred dollars' worth of real estate changed hands recently through the Dietrich Realty Co. offices. Mrs. Gaskill reports that in the majority of these transfers some exchange was taken in as part payment. There are many local "shoppers" who have cash and will buy if real bargains present themselves, she said. There is still a buyers' market but the majority of the owners have not lowered their prices appreciably, the general opinion being that the fall will bring renewed activity and higher prices, she said. One favorable indication is that the demand for rental residence property is greater than at any time during the past six months, she said. Following is a list of the sales and exchanges made by this firm during the past sixty days:

Cherry and apple orchard at Beaumont to Mr. Sechler of La Crescenta; 1206 Princeton drive to E. R. Gaskill; lot on Alameda street to Percy Hellena of Burbank; 1640 Tenth street to Mrs. Wyatt of San Diego; apartment house at 317 to 323 South Glendale avenue to Mrs. Swalm of Glendale; house on Madison way to G. J. Peck of Hollywood; two houses, northeast corner of Everett and Lomita to L. A. Brown of Glendale; cottage at Fawnskin to E. R. Gaskill; lot on Michigan avenue, Flintridge, to E. C. Woodruff; Glendale store and residence, southwest corner Everett and Elk, to Mr. Frear of Beaumont; 1224 East Broadway to Howell Clark of Porterville; sixty acres alfalfa at Porterville to Mr. Hienmiller of Glendale; 340 North Jackson to Mrs. L. E. Glover of Upland; orange grove at Ontario to Welch & Hellman of Glendale; four family flat, West Acacia, to Erna Glover of Upland; 425 West Lexington to Edward Bull of Glendale; house and acreage on Los Angeles street, La Crescenta, to Mrs. Nina Leal, 1224 E. Broadway and twelve and one-half acre apple orchard at Yucaipa with H. L. Finlay, Glendale, to Mary May Howland of Glendale.

Study In Contrast of Roofs

There are roofs and then more roofs, as the owners of hillside property know. In the top and center photographs are shown the types of roofs required in Acacia Hills, the new subdivision in the southeastern part of the city. Contrast these views with the lower photograph, showing a subdivision where flat roofs are permitted.

WILL VISIT IN NORTH

Mrs. R. D. Stinson of 1127 East Doran street will leave Sunday morning for Oakland to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Bohannon, for two weeks. While in the north she will attend the formal opening July 3 of the East Bay Country club, of which Mr. Bohannon is secretary and general manager.

Good news—there are no flat roofs in Acacia Hills, that charming home tract located in the southeast part of Glendale.

Better news—there never will be such a thing as a flat roof in Acacia Hills. The owners of this tract have issued this decree. This should mean something to the prospective home buyers. There are so many tracts in Southern California, and some of them pretty close to Glendale, where no attention whatever has been given by the owners as to the sort of roofs those on the hillside homes have to look at for hundreds of years to come. These tracts have been placed on the market to sell. The owners are in the business simply to sell out the tract and they do not care a rap as to how the views from the hillside homes are marred.

Not so in Acacia Hills. These tract owners have made sure that no time in the future will the purchasers of homes or homesites be compelled to look down upon a lot of unsightly roofs. To accomplish this end these owners have decided to erect no home in their tract that does not have an attractive sloping roof of shingles, slate, tile or the like.

The accompanying illustrations show how the view of the elevated lots may be enhanced or ruined by the type of roofs on the homes below. These pictures speak for themselves—they absolutely leave nothing to the imagination.

Chairmen Are Named For Community Chest

Chairmen of committees of the Glendale Community Chest were named by the executive board under a plan adopted of getting work started ahead of the drive which will occur in October. It was announced today by Herman Nelson, secretary. Each of the chairmen will select from three to five members of his committee to work with him.

The chairmen are: Finance, D. H. Smith; budget, R. Kitterman; publicity, Burton McGinnis; and campaign, D. Ripley Jackson. The latter will be at the head of the organization undertaking.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27.—Cooler weather was the welcome promise of the weather man today to interior California, Oregon and Washington, bringing a break in the record-breaking heat wave which has swept the entire west for several days.

"The hot wave will break and temperatures will become more nearly normal throughout the interior tonight and Sunday," said Forecaster G. H. Wilson today.

The heat wave credited with a toll of at least four lives in the interior and several prostrations, rolled up high records yesterday. Needles scored 116, Paso Robles 113, Red Bluff and Riverside 112, Chico 111, Fresno 108, Stockton and Pomona 106, and a score of points over the century mark.

The weather bureau issued the following forecast for the coming week for the Pacific states:

"The outlook for California is for fair weather and normal temperature but with considerable cloud and fog along the coast; Washington and Oregon, normal temperatures and generally fair weather but with a probability of local rains the first part of the week. The fire hazard will be lower than during the preceding week."

LOS ANGELES, June 27.—Fair and warm tonight and Sunday was the weather forecast today. Temperatures were: Boston, 70; Chicago, 64; Denver, 60; Des Moines, 60; Kansas City, 70; Phoenix, 80; St. Louis, 72; St. Paul, 50; Washington, 74; Los Angeles, 70.

Federal Rule Strikes At Glendale Employees

California, Oregon, Washington, Nevada, Utah, New Mexico and Arizona, who have organized as the Western Municipal Utilities Employees' association.

The association is about to file in the federal court at Los Angeles an action in behalf of Thomas Brooks, assistant superintendent of the Los Angeles city water department, for the recovery of income tax for the year 1920, covering his salary as such officer. Actions will also be filed in behalf of employees of the lighting department, harbor department and street railway department. The test case in the harbor department will be a Long Beach employee, local leaders said today.

An effort will be made to obtain legislation in Congress to prevent the treasury department ruling from being enforced.

Each employee of the Glendale water and light departments, if the ruling is enforced, will be forced to pay back income tax for a period of seven years, with all of the penalties and interest. That amount, it was pointed out today, would throw at least 50 per cent of the local employees into bankruptcy.

Serves Hot Steaks To Masonic Officialdom

Sam C. Carter, a member of Glendale Unity lodge, No. 368, F. and A. M., was host last night at a steak dinner in the attractive garden of his home, 1244 South Glendale avenue, to officers of the Seventy-eighth Masonic district which includes Glendale, Burbank, Tujunga, Van Nuys and Lancaster. He was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Carter and Mr. and Mrs. Baker.

A more ideal night could not have been had for the outdoor affair. Tables were arranged in the garden, and delicious steaks broiled over the grill of the Dutch oven. There were forty-six Masons present.

Will Moody of Glendale, a member of Unity lodge, is president of the officers' association of the district. After the dinner last night there were round-table talks, led by Mr. Morrige of Altadena, chairman of the Masonic educational committee. The theme of the informal discussion was the Masonic educational campaign. Next month the officers will meet in Burbank.

HARRY CAREY IN COMEDIAN'S ROLE

"Soft Shoes" Displaying New Side Of Rough Rider; Vaudeville Acts

"Soft Shoes," a Hunt Stromberg production, starring Harry Carey, showing for the last times today at the Glendale theatre, is something of a decided novelty. In this feature Carey steps forth as a comedian, and contributes laughs as well as thrills in his portrayal of the stellar role.

"Soft Shoes" is an original story written by Hunt Stromberg from an idea suggested by Carey himself, and it gives the star the first comedy part in which he ever appeared. The hard-riding stunts that have attracted Carey's big audiences are much in evidence, but in the main the star has a humorous role.

Although it opens in the familiar "cow country," the story soon shifts to San Francisco's underworld and Chinatown. The cast includes Lillian Rich in the leading feminine role, Francis Ford, Stanton Heck, Jimmie Quinn, John Stepping and So-Jin, the Chinese prince of "The Thief of Bagdad."

Sextet Entertains

On the stage is the Syncopated Sextet, led by Gladys Delmar, who plays the part of the unsophisticated country girl. Mamie Ling and Tommy Long have an act made for entertainment, and it succeeds in that. They make a team that is irresistible.

Billy Knight, with his score of roosters, trained from chickhood, has one of the most interesting acts ever seen here on the vaudeville stage. Ray and Esther Valey have a beautiful act, set off with a background of real lace.

George A. Mack, once a boy soprano in the Paulist choir, sings some of his newest songs and tells some of his latest stories.

MURRAY IS BACK WITH 'WHO CARES'

One Of Best Known Comedy Actors On Screen Has Splendid Support

Elinor Glynn's romantic comedy, "Who Cares," with Buster Keaton in "The Frozen North," will be seen the last times today at the Cosmo theatre, South Brand and Windsor road. Beginning Sunday the patrons will see Dorothy Devore, William Haynes and Charles Murray in "Who Cares," while an "Our Gang" comedy also will be on the bill.

Charlie Murray is one of the best known comedy character actors now appearing on the screen. Many people will remember him from his old days with Bessie Love. A good picture with some comedy part in it is not complete without him. Casting directors immediately think of him when they have such a part to fill.

He is at his best in Cosmo Hamilton's "Who Cares," with William Haines, Dorothy Devore, Lloyd Whitlock, Wanda Hawley, Beverly Bayne, Ralph Lewis, Vera Lewis. Among these well-known people he is like a member of the family.

DEFT COMEDY IN FILM OF 'ZANDER'

Marion Davies Appears In Former Stage Play At Gateway Theatre

Presenting a fresh and sparkling story, a cast of celebrated names, a modern version of life, a plot with a unique twist, and Marion Davies as the star, "Zander the Great," the newest Cosmopolitan production released through Metro-Goldwyn, will be shown at the Gateway theatre beginning tomorrow for three days.

"Zander the Great" was adapted by Frances Marion from the Salisbury Field stage play, in which Alice Brady starred for almost two years on Broadway. Directed by George William Hill, it contains all the suspense and interest of the stage production with scores of added thrills and delightfully refreshing situations.

Marion Davies is given unusual opportunity for her versatility in the role of Mamie, a little orphan girl, who is left with a motherless child to care for.

Combining deft comedy touches with strong drama and with a western twang to the later episodes of the picture, "Zander" is a genuine novelty and one which promises a new achievement for Miss Davies.

"Friendly Enemies" will run for the last time tonight.

Faith

Percy Marmont and Alma Rubens have leading parts in "A Woman's Faith," opening Sunday at Glendale theatre.

Cynicism versus faith—these are the two forces that struggle for the mastery in "A Woman's Faith." Universal-Jewel production to be shown for three days beginning tomorrow at the Glendale Theatre. It is a screen adaptation of Clarence Buddington Kelland's famous story "Miracle," which ran as a serial in a national magazine. In it is being featured Alma Rubens with Percy Marmont.

In "A Woman's Faith" is found a man whose belief in everything has been shattered by a series of events that left him wandering aimlessly in the midst of spiritual darkness. Later this spiritual darkness became a physical one, for blindness came to the man whose soul had been crushed. Sneers and jibes at the goodness in humanity; sneers and jibes at all and any belief in the power of the divine and behind it all, an embittered father, a heart-broken mother, a faithless fiancée and a disloyal friend.

Faith In Prayer

Opposite this is found a woman, her soul battered and torn by suspicion and forced out of her real place in life by a false but apparently well substantiated charge of killing her brother. But unlike the man who has no place upon which to lay his burden she still retains her faith in prayer and in divine influence. Both seek refuge in the woods of northern Canada; the man in an effort to escape from his memories and all pertaining to them; the woman to hide herself from the eyes of the law. There fate, the inscrutable, drew these two drifting wrecks together.

Then begins the clash of wills. The supporting cast includes Jean Hersholt, Hughie Mack, Zasu Pitts, Andre Beranger, Sesare Gravina and others.

DR. SCHELL SENDS TALE OF WEDDING

Retired Minister Describes Daughter's Marriage To
U. S. Army Officer

Dr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Schell of 1606 Ridgeway drive, who are spending several weeks in the East, left their summer home, "The Pines," Ludington, Mich., late this week for Boston. In writing The Glendale Evening News this week, Dr. Schell told of attending the marriage of his daughter, Katharine, to Major E. B. Spiller, U. S. A., last week in Kansas City, Mo. Dr. Schell says, "I am an authority now on 'The High Price of June Brides'." "Pa's not to reason why, His but to pay and buy, Noble old Peter."

"But the loveliness of the bride and her attendants, twenty-five Campfire girls preceding and singing the Lohengrin chorus; Mrs. Schell trailing down the aisle of the church on the arm of a colonel, the gown of the clergy, the arch of swords made by six majors, all made it a good investment." Dr. Schell assisted with the service, read by Dr. Robert Nelson Spencer.

Sell Eastern Home
A clipping from the Ludington, Mich., Daily News says: Dr. E. A. Schell of Glendale, Cal., one of the founders of Elworthy, thirty-one years ago, who has been a summer resident with but three exceptions, has arrived with his wife at their cottage. Dr. Schell retired from the ministry last fall. He was forty-one years in active service. During his last pastorate he built a $175,000 church for the Country Club Methodists in Kansas City. "Since he has chosen California for a permanent residence, Mr. Schell has decided to sell his home here."

Glendale Aero Program Leads Richmond to Act

Following out in detail the program of the Glendale air meet, held several months ago, the city and Chamber of Commerce officials at Richmond, Cal., across the bay from San Francisco, opened a monster aeronautical celebration this morning. The meet will last today and tomorrow, and will commemorate the opening of Richmond's new municipal flying field.

Since the inception of the Western Aero league at the Glendale air rodeo, Richmond officials have been in touch with Southern California air enthusiasts. It was largely through the influence of Dr. T. C. Young and other officers of the league that Richmond's field was secured. Dr. Young assisted in laying out the field.

The Western Aero league is officially represented at the Richmond meet by Secretary Howard I. Wood of Glendale. He left for the north last night.

The beautiful grounds of the Horn home will be lighted by numerous electric lights, so that the effect will be that of a fairyland. About 130 guests, many of them from Los Angeles, are expected to be present.

The occasion will also be the opening of the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Horn. Mr. and Mrs. Horn have rebuilt on the same site which has been the family home for some time. Mrs. Dobson is the mother of Horn, who is now at Yosemite on location, but plans to be back in time to act as host tonight.

Glendale Crowds Flock To See Chrysler Four

These pictures are the first of the Chrysler Four. The Chrysler Four made its first appearance today on the floor of the Glendale Motor Car Co., 124 West Colorado, Lyman P. Clark, president. Thousands of Glendale people are attending the first presentation. It is predicted that the Chrysler Four will duplicate the remarkable record established by the Chrysler Six. The Glendale Motor Car Co. will hold "open house" tonight.

With every promise of duplicating the amazing success of the Chrysler Six, the Chrysler Four made its appearance today for the first time on the sales floor of the Glendale Motor Car Co., 124 West Colorado street, Glendale Chrysler dealers.

To say that the new Chrysler Four coach model played to a crowded house is putting it mildly. For although the occasion was in the nature of a preview by invitation, the new car drew hundreds of visitors all afternoon, from the moment it was placed on display at noon, and the prospects for a thronged house until the salesroom closes tonight are regarded as a certainty.

Lyman P. Clark, the president of the company, sent out 5000 invitations to Glendale residents to inspect the new car, and a large percentage of them was on hand to see the latest Chrysler product during the afternoon.

No nameplate is necessary to identify the new Chrysler Four, for outwardly it is a duplicate of the six, only on a smaller scale. "It is a matter of motor car history," says Clark, "that the Chrysler Six worked a literal revolution in body styles in the medium priced field, and I am confident that the four will have the same effect in its price range."

The Four is produced in four styles, the touring car, the sedan, the coach and the club coupe, and all of them display the distinctive and pleasing Chrysler lines in which the graceful, nickle-plated radiator and sweeping belt lines play a prominent part.

Smashes Precedent
Walter P. Chrysler has a habit of breaking precedents when he produces new motor cars, and his latest achievement is no exception to that rule. By making hydraulic four wheel brakes optional at slight extra cost he has introduced this type of equipment into a new price field. Not content with smoothing the engine performance with a short heavy crankshaft and light, well balanced reciprocating parts, he has completely isolated the engine from direct contact with the chassis by a floating platform spring in front and rubber bushings and pads in the rear. Especial attention has been paid to the riding qualities of the car, and the steering has been especially designed for the balloon tire equipment. The motor delivers 38 1/2 horsepower and is equipped with place it for force feed lubrication that is typical of cars of much higher price range.

The Fisher Body corporation is responsible for the closed bodies of the new Chrysler Four, which is guarantee enough of their construction and finish.

"The Chrysler Four" Clark asserts, "is destined to revolutionize the four cylinder field just as the Chrysler Six paved the way to a new era in its own field, and the unchallenged leadership of the Six will, I am confident, be repeated in the performance of the Four."

The Chrysler Four is especially fitted to Southern California conditions, and the price at which it will be sold with place it within the reach of the man of moderate means and give him a car that will prove economical in operation and that will possess all the riding comfort of the Chrysler Six as well as its distinctive appearance.

"I have been surprised at the crowd of visitors we have had this afternoon. I knew that the interest in the new car was great, but even my most optimistic predictions for the number of those who would call to see the four have been far surpassed even before the day is half over," said Clark.

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

A rather unusual week closes, both at home and abroad. In California the first hot spell of the year—and not so hot as you may have imagined—sent everyone who could go to the mountains and beaches for their vacations.

Business in Glendale, however, has been good, as witness the volume of advertising published in The Glendale Evening News this week. Also, the temperature here was much more equable than in other broader valleys of the state.

Financially, California is standing to the fore because prosperity has smiled on this favored land almost continuously; the nation at large also is in good economic shape this year and only evolution, prohibition enforcement and kindred subjects are left for fodder in the news columns, it would seem.

As for the world, the Chinese crisis has not shown any improvement. The Riffs still hold to the fore in French and Spanish Morocco warfare. Noted observers see the hand of the soviet in both of these far-flung war theatres, but it is doubtful that Russia is such a force as imagined. Indeed, the Russians are brewing trouble at home and the communistic government is going to have its hands full of malcontents, if rumblings from within are to be believed.

Mexico has weathered the censure of the United States and conditions south of the Rio Grande, no doubt, will be bettered by the firm stand taken by Secretary Kellogg in his note to President Calles. Likewise, the latter showed a determined attitude in his reply, which was blunt. Frank statements make for understanding and respect.

Among other world events revolutionary movements in South America and Greece also lend color to the cable news.

The warm weather has brought forth here an extraordinary crop of insects, although they are a harmless variety. Some seasons there are none of the little bugs noted and then a wind from the interior valleys brings them south by the trillions, it seems.

However, this is not their native haunt and another day or two will see them gone to the dust from whence they sprang.

Lots of local news these days—going and coming Glendale folk and their visitors get personal mention in The Glendale Evening News.

It is a community newspaper that teams with home-town events, not neglecting telegraph, features, sports, markets and other topic matter of reader interest.

CHILDREN FROLIC AT PARK PLUNGE

Cool Pool Attracts Many

excavate marvelous tunnels, and the only flaw in a perfect day is the time to go home.

Playground Equipment
In front of the sand pile, picnic tables and seats in a pretty pavilion invite families to bring luncheon or supper and picnic in the open. A slide and a giant stride complete the playground equipment.

Close to the picnic grounds is the bandstand. Architecture in Patterson Park is all of one type, Spanish style in concrete, so the entire effect is most harmonious. The bandstand is of good size and most attractive.

At the other end of the park are the tennis courts and there the tennis enthusiasts meet for snappy games, after which they adjourn to the plunge for cooling showers and swims.

Big Flower Beds

To the older folks, the appeal of Glendale's playground lies as much in its superlative beauty as in its opportunity for sports. Beds of brilliant flowers surround the concrete pergola and the walk to the lily pond, the latter spanned by a miniature concrete bridge. In the double pond single and double water-lilies of pink, blue, white and yellow lie gleaming in the sun, and in the center of one of the rock-edged pools one large, gorgeous lily lifts high its stately head.

The pond is surrounded by beds of flowers in a flaming riot of colors. Just now the gladioli and the Canterbury bells are in their glory, with a few early asters and many roses and pansies in bloom. Hundreds of chrysanthemums hold the promise of beauty to come. In the midst of the sunken gardens is a handsome pergola of concrete, with stately pillars and stone seats. Vines climb the pillars and, in a few years more will be arches of greenery, for all this beauty has been made in just about two years.

Patterson Park grounds were originally sold at cost to the city by J. R. Gray, whose civic spirit prompted him to forego any profit at the city's expense.

Park Commission

It is only during the last two or three years that Glendale has had a park commission, and much credit for the work done at Patterson and for the admirable plans for the future must be given to this commission, who volunteer their time and their services. L. H. Wilson is president of the Park Commission, and serving with him are Rev. C. M. Caldwell, V. M. Hollister, L. T. Rowley and Dr. Jessie Tucker.

E. Ernest Tucker, superintendent of municipal recreation and acting secretary for the park commission, also deserves much credit for the beautifying of the grounds. The actual maintenance of the park and of the flower beds is in the care of Sam Warren, superintendent of Patterson park, who is assisted by "Oley," the gardener responsible for much of the successful flower-raising. It is planned to have free evening concerts at Patterson Park this summer, many of them to be symphony concerts by the Glendale Municipal Symphony orchestra, under the direction of J. Arthur Myers. There will also probably be some Sunday afternoon concerts at Nibley Park by the same orchestra. Dates for these affairs have not yet been set.

Brand Park Next

The next recreation center to be improved will be Brand Park, the gift of the late L. C. Brand before his death. This land was formerly part of the Brand estate on Grand View avenue. Certain rights-of-way must be settled before the work can start, then as soon as funds are available, improvements will start in earnest.

It had been hoped that this year's appropriation would allow for building a large swimming pool in Glendale, as the one at Patterson Park is so small, but with the cut in appropriations this hope went glimmering. However, the matter will probably be taken up by bond issue, as it is felt in most quarters that Glendale needs one large swimming pool and that once such a structure is completed, revenues will make it self-supporting. Pasadena is paying outright for such a pool, even the cost of actual construction, from revenues collected from the swimmers.

Seven Playgrounds

The park commission hopes eventually to have a number of small breathing spaces throughout the city, preferably adjoining school buildings, where playgrounds are already erected, and where the parks will be easily accessible to the school children and to adults.

This summer seven playgrounds with expert directors in charge will be in operation. This is due to the cooperation of the board of education, the Union High School commission and the park commission. The playgrounds will be open from 1 p. m. to 6:30 p. m. after July 1.

HIGHWAY CUTOFF

Motorists driving to The Pinnacles will find an attractive alternative route for return to continue south from The Pinnacles, coming into the coast highway at King City, according to the touring bureau of the National Automobile club. This road is in splendid condition. Just south of Soledad a road turns west, thence north along the foothills. This road passes through Spreckels and connects with the Salinas-Monterey highway.

SOPHIE TUCKER IS ON ORPHEUM BILL

Made Big Hit Recently and Will Appear Once More
Before Admirers

Sophie Tucker, who made one of the outstanding hits of the present Orpheum season, will return to that theatre the week beginning Monday matinee, June 29, for her only appearance in Los Angeles this summer. As she is not playing any other theatre, Miss Tucker brings a complete new act, with Carroll and Ted Shapiro at the double pianos. Miss Tucker—the only vaudeville star to have a phone exchange named for her, if it is any honor—is one of the most versatile women on the stage, one of the best show women to see even though it was some six weeks ago that she played here it is none too soon to have her back again.

Another comedy feature in the new bill is the arrival of William Gaxton and his company in a very clever farce, "Kisses." This is a real vaudeville classic and Gaxton is the one boy who can play it.

Master of Dance

Earliest Evans, absent in late years, is recalled as a master of the dance, both in his own work and in training and presentation of ensemble acts.

Peri Kelton—well, she and her partner, and then you'll know what this snappy miss has to offer, which is considerable. Wells, Virginia & West, already a hit, remain. Also listed are Sydney Lanfield, and the two pretty Adolphia sisters, of local fame, who are certain to be welcomed home generously.

Tabernacle Is Filled At Nightly Meetings

The Knox tabernacle on North Brand boulevard continues to be filled to capacity by those interested in the illustrated lectures by the astronomer-evangelist. Speaking of the wonders of creation to be observed in the ocean waters, Knox said in his lecture last night that the submarine gardens existing in some of the tropical waters far exceed in beauty any garden paradise that man has created on the land.

"The intelligence with which the creator has endowed the animals representing the work of the sixth day of creation week," Knox said, "is another wonder. Whether this intelligence be due to reason or to instinct, they received it from a creator, and not from chance or any earthly source."

The speaker related a number of incidents illustrating the intelligence displayed by animals both of the higher and the lower orders. "Even creeping things," he said, "know how to find their way from a pond that is drying up, straight to the nearest water, though it may be quite a distance away. The dog, the horse and other domestic animals which give us faithful service and devotion, are examples of what all the animals would have been to man if creation had not come under the ruinous power of sin."

"Behold Who Hath Created These Things," will be the subject of a lecture tonight. Sunday night the subject will be, "A message from you from the sun, moon and stars."

Children Given Safety Advice By Police Chief

Chief of Police John D. Fraser yesterday visited the Daily Vacation Bible school, which is being held at Grand View school, under the auspices of Grand View Community church, and gave a talk on "Safety First." Chief Fraser was enthusiastically received, and gave a practical address. He received the pledge of the school to stand for safety first as loyal Americans.

Miss Rose Scott, director of religious education for Los Angeles Presbytery, also visited the school yesterday during the music period.

Registration has grown to 160, and is still growing, the number registered having almost doubled since the first day the school opened. At the close of the school yesterday candy was given the pupils. Mrs. Margaret W. Thomas is principal, and is assisted by an able corps of teachers.

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

Reducing Medicines
Mrs. C.—You are in good health, but you are overweight, and you want to try some reducing medicine which your leading druggist is advertising. Do I advise it?
No, indeed, I DO NOT advise you taking any medicine for reducing, except under very skillful supervision of a physician. Excuse me for being so emphatic, but all patent medicines for reduction are dangerous.

You do not need medicine to reduce unless you are pathologically fat—that is, unless your glands are not functioning properly—and that is a rare condition. Usually those glandular cases have very great disproportion in the distribution of their fat. They will perhaps be thin in the upper part of the body and enormously fat in the hips and legs and abdomen. When you see a person who is symmetrically fat you will know that that person is fat because of overeating and lack of exercise, and the only thing necessary to reduce is to change these habits. Even in the glandular cases there is practically always a history of overeating for the needs. That may have been the cause of the glandular trouble.

If you want to reduce, follow our instructions. If you missed these instructions in the column, send for a resume of them, including a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10 cents in stamps, to partially cover cost of printing and handling.

Cessation of Menstruation
Mrs. Y.—Menstruation may stop during an acute infectious disease like influenza or any chronic disease, like tuberculosis and anemia. Occasionally changes of climate, shock, overweight, underweight will also cause the menses to become scanty or to cease.

The fact that your lower teeth and the tonsils are in such bad condition might be the cause of your anemia, and so indirectly your lessened menstrual flow. You should have these conditions attended to. I am sorry I cannot give you names of physicians.

A Reader Friend has written to ask me for suggestions for a Patriotic Party for July Fourth. As she did not give her address, however, and omitted to state whether she lives on a farm or in a closely-populated locality, I shall not be able to help her quite as fully as if she had mentioned these important details.

If she lives in a stretch of open country, however, near woodlands, she might give a delightful Patriotic Picnic, such as the following: Ask the guests to wear "hiking shoes" and rather at her house at 11 o'clock on the morning of July Fourth. Choose a "leader" and inform him that a trail has been blazed to a secret picnic-spot with little flags; but that, if he fails to see one of these guiding flags, he must give over his leadership to the first person who does find the next flag. Then form the party in a line and start them toward the first flag of the series. Have the flag-trail wind around rocks and trees, but finally end at a sylvan spot which you have previously decorated with bunting or red.

JOSEPH FORTUNATO,
elected director of Gibraltar
Finance Corp.

Joseph Fortunato, president of the Glendale Tile & Mantel Co., and one of Glendale's foremost young business men who has been connected with the Gibraltar Finance corporation since its founding as chairman of the advisory board, was elected as one of the directors of the corporation at a special meeting held at the main office of the corporation on Thursday night.

Mr. Fortunato has been a resident of Glendale for the past fourteen years, and in that length of time through his keen business judgment coupled with his honesty and integrity has amassed a very substantial fortune. The HOUSE of the ARROW

A SERIAL STORY WRITTEN BY A. E. W. MASON
Protected By The McClure Newspaper Syndicate

"Because of the footlights," Monsieur Bex answered, and Betty turned about and stared at him. "Yes, we came to that conclusion, Monsieur Frobisher and I. Everything he does must hinge on a curtain down," and once more the key turned in the lock.

Betty swung round again as the sound reached her ears and came face to face with Hanaud. Hanaud looked over her shoulder at Frobisher and shook his head ruefully.

"You did not find it, then?" Jim asked.

"No," Hanaud looked away from Jim to Betty Harlowe.

"Monsieur Frobisher put an idea into my head, Mademoiselle. I had not looked into that exquisite sedan chair. It might well be that the necklace had been hidden behind the cushions. But it is not there."

"And you looked the door, Monsieur," said Betty stiffly.

"The door of my room, I ask you to notice."

Hanaud drew himself erect. "I did, Mademoiselle," he replied. "And then?"

Betty hesitated with some sharp rejoinder on the tip of her tongue. But she did not speak it. She shrugged her shoulders and said coldly as she turned from him:

"You are within your rights, no doubt, Monsieur."

Hanaud smiled at her good-humoredly. He had offended her again. She was showing him once more the petulant, mutinous child in her which he had seen the morning before. But the smile did remain upon his face. In the doorway of the library Ann Upcott was standing, her face still very pale, and fires smoldering in her eyes.

"You searched my rooms, I hope, Monsieur," she said in a challenging voice.

"Thoroughly, Mademoiselle."

"And you did not find the necklace?"

"No," and he walked straight across the hall to her with a look suddenly grown stern.

"Mademoiselle, I should like you to answer me a question. But you need not. I wish you to understand that. You have a right to reserve your answers for the office of the examining magistrate and then give them only in the presence of and with the consent of your legal adviser, Monsieur Bex will assure you that is so."

The girl's defiance weakened. "What do you wish to ask me?" she asked.

"Exactly how you came to the Maison Grenelle."

The fire died out of her eyes; Ann's eyelids fluttered down. She stretched out a hand against the jamb of the door to steady herself. Jim wondered whether she guessed that the head of Simon Harlowe's arrow was now hidden in Hanaud's pocket.

"I was at Monte Carlo," she began and stopped.

"And quite alone?" Hanaud continued relentlessly.

"Yes."

"And without money?"

"With a little money," Ann corrected.

"Which you lost," Hanaud rejoined.

"Yes."

"And at Monte Carlo you made the acquaintance of Boris Waberski?"

"Yes."

"And so you came to the Maison Grenelle?"

"Yes."

"It is all very curious, Mademoiselle," said Hanaud gravely, and "If it were only curious!" Jim Frobisher wished with all his heart. For Ann Upcott quailed before the detective's glance. It seemed to him that with another question from him, an actual confession would falter and stumble from her lips. A confession of complicity with Boris Waberski! And then? Jim caught a dreadful glimpse of the future which awaited her. The guillotine! Probably a fate much worse. For that would be over soon and she at rest. A few poignant weeks, an agony of waiting, now in an intoxication of hope, now in the lowest hell of terror; some dreadful minutes at the breaking of a dawn—and an end! That would be better after all than the endless years of sordid heart-breaking labor, coarse food and clothes, among the criminals of a convict prison in France.

Jim turned his eyes away from her with a shiver of discomfort and saw with a queer little shock that Betty was watching him with a singular intensity; as if what interested her was not so much Ann's peril as his feeling about it.

Meanwhile Ann had made up her mind.

"I shall tell you at once the little there is to tell," she declared. The words were brave enough, but the bravado ended with the words. She had provoked the short interrogatory with a clear challenge. She ended it in a hardly audible whisper. However, she managed to tell her story, leaning there against the post of the door. Indeed her voice strengthened as she went on and once a smile of real amusement flickered about her lips and in her eyes and set the dimples playing in her cheeks.

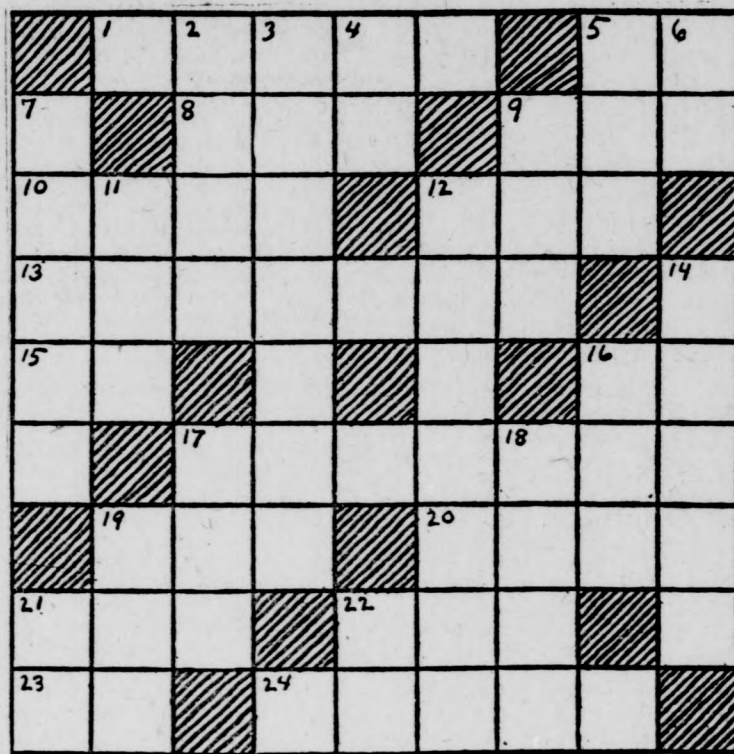

Up to eighteen months ago she had lived with her mother, a widow, in Dorsetshire, a few miles behind Weymouth. The pair of them lived with difficulty. For Mrs. Upcott found herself in as desperate a position as England provides for gentlemen. She was a small landowner taxed up to her ears, and then rated over the top of her head. Ann, for her part, was thought in the neighborhood to have promise as an artist. On the death of her mother the estate was sold as a toy to a manufacturer, and Ann, with a small purse and a sackload of ambitions, set out for London.

"It took me a year to understand that I was and should remain an amateur. I counted over my money. I had three hundred pounds left. What was I going to do with it? It wasn't enough to set me up in a shop. On the other hand, I hated the idea of independence. So I made up my mind to have ten wild, gorgeous days at Monte Carlo and make a fortune, or lose the lot."

It was then that the smile set her eyes dancing.

HOW TO SOLVE THE CROSS WORD PUZZLE
The way to solve the Cross Word Puzzle is to fill in the white squares of the diagram with the words which agree with the accompanying definitions. The definitions are numbered to correspond with the numbers on the diagram.
Any word defined in the text under "HORIZONTAL" will begin at its number, shown on the diagram, and will extend all the way across to the first black space to the right of that number. That is, the word must begin in the square that contains its identifying number, and extend as far as the white squares continue uninterrupted.
Any word defined under "VERTICAL" will also begin in the white space that contains its number, but will extend downward as far as the white spaces remain uninterrupted.

"And Mademoiselle Harlowe?"

"Monsieur Boris introduced me a day or two later to Betty at tea-time in the lounge of the Hotel de Paris."

"Aha!" said Hanaud. He glanced at Jim with an almost imperceptible shrug of the shoulders. It was, indeed, becoming more and more obvious that Waberski had brought Ann Upcott into that household deliberately, as part of a plan carefully conceived and in due time to be fulfilled.

"When did Waberski first suggest that you should join Mademoiselle Harlowe?" he asked.

"Yes, a fortnight before. But

UNCLE WIGGILY'S PICNIC

Early Saturday morning loud Jangle, the two lively little girls, and joyful sounds echoed through the hollow stump bungalow where Uncle Wiggily Longears lived with his new wife and many little rabbit boys and girls.

"Get up! Get up! Everybody get up!" cried the bunny rabbit gentleman, hopping first on one paw and then on the other. "Come now—everybody up!"

At first no one answered. Then some sleepy yawns were heard and finally Weezie, a little rabbit girl, called down the stairs:

"Oh Daddy! I guess you forgot this was Saturday when we don't have to go to school. And, anyhow, yesterday was the last Friday, for it's nearly the Fourth of July, and the long vacation starts on Monday. You shouldn't have called us so early when there's no school!"

"Never mind about school!" laughed the bunny daddy. "I didn't call you for that! I called you to go to the woods with me on a picnic. Come! Nurse Jane will put us up a fine lunch and we'll have jolly good fun at the picnic!"

Well you can imagine how quickly, then, the little boy and girl rabbits jumped out of bed. They couldn't get down stairs quickly enough, and Jingle and

"What's that—a bear has caught Jangle?" cried Jingle. "Come and make him let her go!"

So Uncle Wiggily and all the rest of them rushed back with Jingle, where she had left Jangle, and there was the little rabbit girl jumping up and down, as if trying to get away, and she cried:

"Please, Mr. Bear, let me go! Oh, please, good Mr. Bear, let me go!"

But when Uncle Wiggily looked behind Jangle he laughed. For it wasn't a bear at all, that had hold of the little rabbit girl. But her dress was caught on some bramble briar bushes and it felt like a bear's claws pulling her.

Soon Jangle had forgotten her fears and her tears and the picnic was going along pleasantly when, all of a sudden, Scooter came running through the woods, crying:

"Tooter fell in the brook!" "Tooter fell in the brook!" begged Mrs. Longears, for she loved every one of her forty-seven little rabbits. Uncle Wiggily hopped to the brook and pulled out Tooter. There was no mistake about it. He had fallen in—but the worst that happened was that he got very wet.

Well they put Tooter in a warm, sunny place to dry, and the picnic was getting along nicely, when, all of a sudden, Weezie cried:

"Look! Tooter has fallen in the brook again!" And, surely enough, the little rabbit boy had toppled off the stump, where they put him to dry, and in the brook he was.

But it was a good thing to fall in this time. For just then, the Bob Cat came sneaking up to see if he could get any ears to nibble. And when Tooter fell in the brook he splashed a lot of water on the bad cat.

"Oh, scoozie! Scoozie!" howled the Bob Cat, who didn't like water. And out of the woods he ran. Then Uncle Wiggily pulled Tooter from the brook the second time, and put him far enough away from it to dry so he couldn't fall in again. After which the picnic went on again and they all had a fine time.

And if the rocking horse doesn't try to go fishing with the clothes line, to catch cold for the ice man, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's sky-rocket.

SECOND ROUND TO START ON MONDAY

Managers Of Twilight Loop Teams Hold Meeting At Harvard High Gym

The second round of play in the Twilight League will start Monday afternoon when the Radios and Firemen hook up at Broadway High school grounds. The Firemen took a half-line decision over the Radios in the first game, but Manager Watts is confident it will be a different story Monday.

The final game of the first round is being played at Broadway field. If the milkmen win, the two teams will be tied for bottom place, while a victory for the churchmen will put them in a tie with the Calla Lily aggregation.

Managers of the various teams met at the Harvard High school gym last night and made up new lists of players for the second round. President N. C. Hayhurst presided at the meeting. An assessment will be made on each team to purchase new balls, it was decided.

The championship series will be two games out of three, to be played in August. The winner of the first round will meet the winner of the second round, for the city title.

In the event the same team wins the first and second rounds, the team which has the second highest percentage for the entire season will be the opponents. Should two teams tie for second place a "little world's series" will be played first.

Managers present last night were: Jensen, Hull Trucks, Watts, Radio, Firemen, and Shingledacker, Calla Lily. The Christian church and Postoffice teams were not represented. The Glendale Creamery manager was present before the meeting started but was called away.

RINGSIDE GOSSIP BY FAIR PLAY

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, June 27.—What deep and devious plans does the wily Floyd Fitzsimmons of Benton Harbor and Michigan City carry in his mind as he fares forth across the Atlantic to meet and talk to his good pal, Jack Dempsey? Fitzsimmons was kind to Jack when Jack was not so potent a figure in the world of pugilism as he is today and Dempsey who does not forget such things did not forget this.

He fought for Fitzsimmons at Benton Harbor and assumed great risk in doing so. The risk he assumed was that of killing his opponent, poor Billy Miske, a great fighter at his weight if there ever was one, but a sick man.

Since then, especially when Kearns was active in handling Dempsey, there have been persistent rumors that Fitzsimmons was to get some plum in the way of a bout but they turned out to be threats directed at the heads of rival promoters who were in a position to make more money for the firm than Floyd could. And usually they worked well and Dempsey got lucrative bouts elsewhere.

But just now Fitzsimmons seems full of business. What he could offer Jack is a problem. The sort of bouts Dempsey puts up are not regarded with favor in Indiana, being a bit too rugged. Of course, he might agree to be as good as he did in the past, a man which there is nothing more peaceful and harmless, but who would the opponent be against whom Jack could afford to go easy?

The public is getting restive these days and the fans are less and less inclined to dig down for multiple dollars herewith to pay their way in arenas where doubtful bouts are being staged.

KELLEY GETS TWO

Kelley's two homers, the last of which came with two on in the twelfth, staked the Giants to a 9 to 6 victory over the Dodgers.

JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, June 27.—Every move that is being made by the Washington club as regards its players tends to fortify the team for a driving finish which Clark Griffith seems to expect during the month of September and the last part of August.

Washington is in that position in the race now in which it has two ends to play. The first is to oust the Athletics out of first place at the proper time and the other is to keep some one of those bumptious western teams from throwing Washington out of second place in the meantime. Nothing short of a miracle ever will lift either Boston or New York out of the second division in the league.

The fans must not overlook the fact that the Washingtons will stem into the last six weeks of the season with a veteran pitching staff which should be going better at that time than it is now as the older pitchers, with rare exceptions can do better in the last days of the race than they can at the start.

Walter Johnson is throwing the ball with all his old time vigor. Coveleske has been doing a fine portion of his share for the team and should be able to do more. Marberry is a good fill-in pitcher as he was in 1923, his great speed helping him as well as a young arm that has not lost its vigor.

Rueher has pitched more successfully than he pitched for Brooklyn, which is not intended to scatter any flowers over his prowess and Zachary is simply moseying along. He is not as good as he was in 1924 although he should do better later. Left handers are such an uncertain commodity that any manager who has one never knows what to expect. Gregg, from whom little has been heard, may turn in and pitch like a fiend in the closing days of the season as he did on the coast last year.

The release of Mogridge of St. Louis perhaps had to come, if Washington needed a veteran catcher to assist Ruel, but it also extracted a lot of sentiment from the Washington cause, for Mogridge was the pitcher who stood between success and defeat for Washington last year in the world series. Walter Johnson got a heap of glory, Zachary pitched two great games for his team but it was Mogridge who turned the tide at the Polo Grounds.

Mogridge could not win for Washington this season and the rope was cut as quickly as you can say it, but he looked good in the spring when some of the other left-handers didn't.

Griff has taken on Scott for his shortstop position, a mighty wise move, with the Washingtons where they are. He has Severide behind the bat to hold the team when the battle is white hot and he has all kinds of immediate help from Johnson who is booming on and apt to continue to do so as long as his arm is as pliable as it is now.

Joe Harris can play first base and hit right handed against left-hand pitchers and if kept he can play third base if anything happens to Bluege. Washington is a much better equipped team for the end of the fray than it was in 1924 and the athletics will find that out.

BASEBALL

Duck soup, that's the Vernon Tigers who dropped their third straight to the Portland club at Washington park yesterday when Ed Bryan, Nebraska twirler, lost out to Rube Harrison in seven innings of a pitcher's duel that ended disastrously for the Essikians, score 6 to 2.

Again Salt Lake licked the San Francisco Seals in the Mormon capital 6 to 5, while Los Angeles won from Sacramento in a blistering battle, ending 4 to 3. Seattle won at Oakland, score 2 to 1.

Famed Waikiki, Hawaii, is to have a $2,000,000 hotel.

Revive Question of Yanking

Baseball fans are divided on this matter of giving a pitcher the air when the opposing club starts hitting him too often. JOHNNY MORRISON, left, rated as greatest curve ball pitcher, was yanked nineteen times last season. LEE FOHL, right, resigned as pilot of Cleveland club because fans did not agree with him on letting a pitcher find his way out.

By NORMAN E. BROWN

Written for The Evening News.

Are pitchers yanked too quickly and without reason by baseball managers in their efforts to win games?

This much-mooted question bobs up again as the early season bombardment of the hurlers by the big league batters continues. Scarcely a day goes by that does not see several pitchers of both big circuits sent to their respective showers before the games are finished.

Naturally considerable sympathy goes to the hurler who finds himself "derricked" when things begin breaking badly for him in a tight game. But I take exception to the remark sometimes expressed that pitchers are being abused and injured in this respect.

The plea is made in their behalf that they come to lose all confidence in themselves after they have withdrawn two or three times. That they eventually go into the game feeling that they will not last through it, no matter what happens. The psychological effect is detrimental to them and the team, it is pointed out.

It is argued that the fielders are not summarily yanked when they weaken by fielding a ball poorly or that batters are not "yanked" when they fail to deliver at bat in a pinch.

This is a measure is true at first thought. But when the relative importance of these players in a given game is considered this argument falls flat.

Backbone of Team The pitcher is the backbone of a team's defense. He literally starts 90 per cent of the plays in the game.

The pitcher directly or indirectly controls every play in which the batter figures. On his delivery depends the success or failure of the batter to deliver for himself. The batter plays a big part in all moves made on the bases. The pitcher's ability to nullify the batter's value in base stealing, hit and run, and squeeze plays, plays an important part in the attack of the opposing team.

The alertness of the pitcher in watching the base runners from his box between deliveries, can aid or deter the opposition in their attack.

In defensive value to the team the catcher and first baseman rank next.

The first baseman figures in something more than half the actual putouts of the game. The catcher, by virtue of his position, plays an important part in checking the base running activities of the opposition as well as in helping to retire the batter, guarding home plate and aiding the pitcher generally.

The other infielders are of slightly less importance, and the outfielders come last. The part each one of these various positions plays in the defense cannot be figured out in percentage, as uncertain elements enter into the matter.

But this can be said—that the pitcher, by reason of his part in every play, his position in the field, and his knowledge of batters and ability to employ that knowledge, is overwhelmingly the key pin of the defense. Hence that defense topples the instant that he weakens. Human power to overcome this break in the defense is limited. Spectacular fielding and heavy hitting can only compensate for part of it.

Faltering Batters Failure of any other given player to play his part in the defense in a given game weakens the team to a degree in proportion to his part in the defensive play. His weakness in a given game, therefore, is less disastrous in the same proportion. He may neutralize his weakness as a pitcher by his efforts on the offense. Reversely, he may atone for his weakness on the offense by sterling work in the field.

Donie Bush, Oscar Vitt, Everett Scott and others are examples of men who rose to stardom in the big league despite their inability to deliver at bat. This because their defensive play was beyond question.

Continued failure of the regular players on a team to deliver on offense or defense results in their being derelicted just as the faltering pitcher is.

There is no way of comparing the relative harm done a team by a pitcher enjoying an "off" day and a fielder or batter in a slump. It is impossible to say whether a pitcher costs a team more by losing one game than a fielder does in playing poor ball in a given stretch of games.

But if the relative importance of these players to the team is considered one comes to the conclusion that the infielder or outfielder suffers the same "humiliation" in comparison to his part in the scheme of things, as does the hurler.

Then why the sympathy for the pitcher? The psychology of the thing may affect some players who find themselves yanked. But most pitchers, if they stand the gaff, become philosophers.

LAWRENCE PERRY SAYS

Special Correspondent to The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, June 27.—Watching the eastern intercollegiate golf tournament which now is in progress on the links of the Montclair Golf club, the writer was struck by the difference which golf suggests to all other sports in which college teams, or individuals, compete, one against the other.

There is no cheering for one thing. Imagine a group of partisans whooping it up for old Siwash just as the representatives of a rival college are about to putt or drive! It is unthinkable, naturally.

There are indeed, more reasons than one why the wild ululations of the college pack are not to be considered. The gallery, to present one reason, is not and may not be divided in accordance with collegiate affiliation. Golf galleries are too inclined to wander to various points and to decide which players they shall follow.

Harvard player is up against a supreme Syracuse man—do you suppose the Princetonians present are going to watch the game of their own representative? If you do, think again.

Golf galleries are always made up of players and players are critics before they are anything else. And at Montclair in New Jersey you will find no college spirit of recognizable brand. College spirit in truth is totally eliminated in favor of golfing spirit. There is not the slightest way by which the visitors to these Jersey hills could distinguish this as an intercollegiate contest which means much to the players involved if not to the general mass of alumni and undergrads.

Players purely and simply are individuals and when they fail to sink a putt or when they flub a drive, it is a personal misfortune, not one that may be shared by dear old alma mater.

One thing about this game of intercollegiate golf which gives it a significance unshared by any other sport on the collegiate calendar, however, is the fact that the undergraduates who perfect themselves in the game, are adding trumps and aces to the kit of things desirable and undesirable which they will carry with them when they leave the classic shades of their seats of learning and go out into the wide, wide world.

A college alumnus of great golfing enthusiasm, who in the years he has been out of college has made a definite place for himself in the world, says he has never heard of a young college graduate whose golf game was a bit better than passable, who did not find his prowess at the game as great an asset as anything he had ever learned in the classroom.

TRUCKMEN STILL IN FIRST PLACE

Defeat Firemen 9 to 6 In Hard Fought Contest; Details Are Given

By A. S. HALL

Of The Evening News Staff.
The Hull Trucks retained their hold on first place, and the Firemen dropped into second position in the Twilight League yesterday when the truckmen defeated the smoke-eaters 9 to 6 in a game that carried all the thrills of a world's series contest. The game finished the first round for both teams, the truckmen having seven victories and no defeats, while the firemen had six victories and one defeat.

Four umpires were used—Hoyer at the plate, Hayhurst at first; Whitley at second, and Farmer at third. The four-man system was decided upon by officials of the league in order that there would be no question as to decisions in a game that decided which team should be in the play-off for the championship series next August.

E. Jensen, youthful hurler for the winners, again covered himself with glory. The victory was his third win in three starts, all made during the week. His first start was a shutout, his second a no-hit game, and yesterday he hurled his team into first place.

Aiman started on the mound for the firemen and went along good until the fourth inning, when the truckmen scored five runs off him with two men down. Simpson took up the burden and allowed one hit in the balance of the game. The contest by innings:

First Inning
Hull Trucks—Stearman beat out a bunt. Fansett singled to center. Ray Doll forced Stearman at third. Aiman to McKay. C. Jensen popped out to Hodges. Aiman fanned. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Firemen—McKay out. Ray Doll to Stearman. Wilde gathered in Philip's drive. Thomas walked. Aiman doubled to left, scoring Thomas. Eves tripled to left, scoring Aiman. Hodges fanned. Two runs, two hits, no errors.

Second Inning
Hull Trucks—E. Jensen fanned. Wilson walked, took second on overthrow of first by Aiman. Fruehling singled to center, scoring Wilson. Fruehling singled to second on the throw to catch Wilson at the plate. Foster singled through the pitcher's box. Stearman sacrificed. Hodges to Nordstrom. Fruehling scoring. Fansett safe on Eves' error. Foster scored on passed ball. Ray Doll fanned. Three runs, two hits, two errors.

Firemen—Foster grabbed Simpson's fly. Nordstrom hit by pitcher. Manker walked. McKay forced Nordstrom at third. Wilde to Fruehling. Philip forced McKay at second. Wilson to C. Jensen. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Third Inning
Hull Trucks—C. Jensen fanned. Wilde fouled to McKay. E. Jensen hit to Hodges. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Firemen—Thomas singled to center, safe at second on Fansett's error, and came home when Stearman held the ball in center field. Aiman fanned. Eves singled through short. Hodges scored. Eves at second, Wilson to C. Jensen, but was safe when Ray Doll dropped Jensen's leg. Simpson hit, E. Jensen, Ray Doll. One run, two hits, three errors.

Fourth Inning
Hull Trucks—Wilson singled to right, stole second and third. Fruehling hit to Manker. Foster fanned. Stearman safe when Hodges and Aiman tried to catch his popout. Hodges dropping the ball, and Wilson scoring. Fansett singled to right and scored on Ray Doll's single to right. Ray Doll scored on C. Jensen's single to left. Wilde's double to left scored C. Jensen, Simpson pitching for Firemen. E. Jensen singled to right, scoring Wilde. Wilson out, Hodges to Nordstrom. Six runs, six hits, one error.

Firemen—Nordstrom flied to Foster. Manker walked. McKay hit to C. Jensen. Philip hit to Wilde. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fifth Inning
Hull Trucks—Fruehling out. Aiman to Nordstrom. Foster grounded to Nordstrom. Simpson caught Stearman's popout. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Firemen—Thomas singled to right. Stearman made a running catch of Aiman's drive. Eves singled to center. Hodges safe on Wilde's error. Simpson safe on Ray Doll's error. Thomas and Eves scoring. Johnson batting for Nordstrom, singled to center, scoring Hodges. Simpson caught off third, Stearman to Fruehling. Manker fanned to end the inning.

RYAN LOSES IN HOLLYWOOD BOUT

Young Nationalista Awarded Verdict In Main Event; Phythian Is Winner

Being most aggressive throughout the entire ten rounds, Young Nationalista won the decision over "Buffalo" Tommy Ryan in last night's main event at the Hollywood Legion stadium. Ryan used only counter-attacks upon the Filipino and on account of his waiting tactics lost the fight.

In furnishing the blood and thunder for the card Hayden Phythian and Joe Kelly did real work, with Phythian winning the decision by wide margin. The facial beauty of both fighters will be in need of repair after their fracas of last night.

Bennie Barrett, substitute for Freddie Mack, licked Johnny Geraden. Joe Pimental added two knockdowns for good measure and gave Toby Montoyo a real lacing. On account of their huge proportions Jack Murphy and Dave Taylor both received a draw for their fistie efforts.

Glendalian Defeats Junior Net Champion

Further laurels were gained by Robert Stanford when the Glendale net star beat Norville Craig at Midwick Country club yesterday. Craig won the first set, 6-4, but Stanford turned the tables in the two deciding sets and won 6-2, 6-1 and 6-4. These games were in the semi-finals. Craig is considered a most formidable opponent and the comment heard was that "the biggest upset of the day and probably one of the biggest in the tournament was the defeat of Norville Craig by Robert Stanford after three hard sets of tennis."

Craig was considered the junior champion of Southern California. Stanford later was eliminated by Harold Goshal in two games, 6-1 and 6-4. Stanford returned Thursday from Berkeley, where he played in the Pacific Coast tournament semi-finals. He is a student of the University of California, Southern Branch.

Brugnon Defeated In Match At Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, June 27.—One of France's famed "big three" passed out of the Wimbledon all-comers tennis singles today, when Jim Anderson, the Australian crack, wore down and ultimately defeated Brugnon in a great five-set match after the Frenchman had taken the first two sets. The scores: 3-6, 7-9, 6-4, 7-5 and 6-2. The Australian only survived after the bitterest of uphill fights, however.

Lucien Williams of Chicago, teamed with Fenco of England, emerged victorious in the second round of the men's doubles. They defeated Sherwell and Eltringham of England, 6-4, 6-3, 5-7, 7-9 and 8-6. Bartley of Tasmania became one of the eight survivors in the men's singles by disposing of Mayes, the Canadian, 6-2, 1-6, 4-6, 6-3 and 6-1.

SENATORS GO AWAY RUNNING

The Senators got away running in the premiere of the series by beating the Athletics, 5 to 3, and moving within a game and a half of the lead. Goslin's homer with two on in the seventh decided the issue. Johnson was hit hard but not too often.

WHITE SOX WIN

Although the White Sox got only five hits and the Indians eight, the latter finished second, 3 to 1, because Faber, pitching his fifth straight victory, declined to be trifled with in the pinches.

TIGERS BEAT BROWNS

Whitehill left-handed the Browns dizzy while the Tigers hit Gaston with sufficient discretion to score a 4 to 3 victory.

and game. Three runs, three hits, two errors.

KING'S ENVOY IN PLEA TO MOVIELAND

Alphonse Of Spain Urges
Spaniard Be Pictured More Agreeably

By MARIAN MARSHALL
For Southern News Service
HOLLYWOOD, June 27.—The high sense of honor, the ready capacity for generous emotion, traits of the Spanish people, would be brought out in films if King Alphonse of Spain had his way. He has implored Antonio Moreno, through a regal representative, and he has sent a plenipotentiary extraordinary to Hollywood for the purpose of counteracting false impressions he believes prevalent as the result of picturing the Spaniard as cruel and vindictive, and a lover of the passionate, bloodthirsty life.

In the meantime, the proud parents of the films are due to get in an argument. Harold and Mildred Lloyd have an infant prodigy in the personage of Mildred Gloria, at the age of 1 year, experts hold. Of course, that is flattering. But there are other youngsters whose parents do not want any prodigies.

Pat O'Malley, now playing at Universal, says of his three kiddies: "I wouldn't let them be infant prodigies, even if it meant a lot of money, because I believe childhood is a playtime and they should get all the healthy play possible," which is the way most of film parents sum it up, too. Few of them, however, are quite as ambitious as Pat for his Eileen, Sheila and Mary Kathleen. He wants them to be motion picture actresses, because he believes it to be the best career open to any woman.

Hits at Gossips
"That is why I am teaching the two oldest ones everything that goes with a picture career—dancing, elocution, acting and the like. Now and then I try to work Eileen and Sheila in bits of film so they will get the big idea, but that is all for the present. I have no expectation of their being the professional screen juveniles."

And then Pat takes a rap at the gossip about screen actresses when he says: "I know just how much of that which is written is true. The light-minded and off-color actresses are not the ones who were

GEORGIA SCORNS JAPS

ATLANTA, Ga., June 27.—The movement to colonize idle farm lands in this state with Japanese has met with such opposition that abandonment of the project is regarded as certain. Many negroes have returned to the cotton fields after sojourns in industrial centers of the north but the return movement has not been so general as the migration. The farm labor situation is better than last year.

COTTON GROWERS PAID

ATLANTA, Ga., June 27.—The Georgia Cotton Growers Co-operative Marketing association has closed up its 1924 accounts by issuing checks to members for $2,159,000. The association sold 105,982 bales for approximately $12,000,000 in the last year. Operating costs dropped from $7 to $3.86 a bale. The average price for one and a quarter inch white staple was twenty-six and two tenths cents a pound.

Chinese Accept Bible Is Missionary's Word

Rev. Joseph Bates, recently returned from China, delivered a lecture on China at the First Nazarene church, 417 Acacia street, Wednesday night. Rev. Bates is a general missionary superintendent for Japan and China. The missionary in his lecture pictured Chinese cities with streets but fourteen feet wide and the people living now much as they did in Bible times. He also said the Chinese are ready to listen for hours to anyone preach and gladly accept Christianity when once they understand it.

ATWATER OPPOSED TO ELEVATED RAILWAYS

Reorganize Greater Glendale Boulevard Association; Will Resist Rapid Transit Plans Proposed

Action to prevent the building of an elevated rapid transit system along Glendale boulevard in the Atwater district looms with reorganization of the Greater Glendale Boulevard association at a meeting at Edendale last night.

The organization, inactive for some time, was revived "to control the plans for an elevated system in the district, to effect the widening of the boulevard through Edendale and to act in conjunction with the city authorities in planning an adequate traffic bridge for the Glendale boulevard crossing over the Los Angeles river."

The association, composed wholly of Glendale boulevard property owners, went on record opposing an elevated railway line on the boulevard. Their opposition was in line with that expressed in Glendale several weeks ago when the rapid transit system for the metropolitan area was first announced. Brand boulevard property owners voiced their disapproval of any attempt to build an elevated on Brand boulevard at that time.

The Greater Glendale boulevard association will proceed at once with a survey of the rapid transit plans in order to recommend satisfactory changes in the plan that will not necessitate the running of the line on Glendale boulevard. A fund sufficient to complete this survey and big enough to retain legal talent if necessary to keep the line from being established on the boulevard, will be raised immediately.

Masons Plan Temple

Announcement that the Atwater Masonic lodge will build its own temple was made today by Paul E. Lipscomb who has been named president of the Masonic Building association, a corporation which will finance the building of the Masonic home. Other officers will be Clayton S. Decker, vice-president, and Roscoe M. Sanders, secretary-treasurer. Directors of the association will be: Ralph A. Hickman, Fred H. Chapman, R. F. Brown, Guy E. Kendall and Mr. Lipscomb.

The Masons will build their home on property located on the east side of Glendale boulevard between Madera and Glenhurst avenues. The association will incorporate for $15,000. The proposed temple will cost in the neighborhood of $10,000, according to present plans, exclusive of the land.

Building specifications have already been approved by the lodge and architects' drawings are ready. Papers of incorporation will be filed with the state commissioner at Sacramento following a meeting of the building directors the early part of next week.

Lodge Seeks Dispensation

The Atwater Masonic lodge is now ready to apply to the Grand lodge for a dispensation. Application will be made immediately, according to Fred Chapman, master. While the new home of the lodge is under construction it is probable that the Atwater Masons will meet at Elysian lodge. Until a definite decision is reached, however, the lodge will continue to meet.

Baker told what police termed a "queer" story. He said he had been on a "wild party" Thursday night which ended yesterday morning and he then walked until 8 o'clock.

"I then suddenly remembered about a letter I got from a mysterious Chinese two days ago," Baker told police.

"The letter told me that if I would be standing near Milbrae with arms crossed, a taxi man with a package would arrive. That I was to direct this man to drive on down the road and that about 1 mile farther on we would be met by some authorized persons who would take the package and give me $1000.

NEW YORK CLOSING

By W. K. COUSINS
For International News Service

NEW YORK, June 27.—Prices of well-known industrial and motor stocks moved aggressively forward in the stock market today. American Can started with a 3-point gain at the opening to the accompaniment of rumors concerning a long-awaited split-up of the stock at next Tuesday's meeting of the board of directors. The stock jumped 39 points, to 200, in the first half hour of trading.

This week's active movement in General Motors and Yellow Cab gave rise to rumors of a combination of the two companies. Yellow Cab sold above 49, up nearly 2 points from Thursday's low, while General Motors at $5 1/2 was up 6 points from last week's close, also recording the highest price ever reached by the stock in its present form. Willys-Overland, United States Rubber and other motor and motor accessory stocks sold in active trading.

Strength in the pivotal stocks stimulated heavy trading in other sections of the speculative list and price trends were higher. The oil stocks made, only a slight response to the marking up of crude oil prices by the Texas Co. and the prospective advance in Pennsylvania crude which was expected to be announced today. Standard Oil stocks and a few of the independent oils sold fractionally higher, but gains were conservative in comparison with the sheet of bullish predictions issued by the Wall Street brokerage houses.

Copper stocks lacked driving power and so did the railroad list. Southern Railroad moved forward at the opening of the market and St. Paul common gained strength on reports that the bankers would assist stockholders to pay their assessments in case of necessity. New forward movements were started in a number of specialty stocks, including Dupont, Cast Iron Pipe, Radio corporation, Armour, Universal Pipe, Philadelphia Co., etc. United Cigar Stores surged forward to a new high record price, while Gulf Independent Steel, at the head of the independent steel stocks, sold about 1 point higher.

American Smelting was strong in the second hour, with an advance to above 145. Woolworth reached 141 in active trading. French and Italian exchange scored moderate advances, the franc advancing to .0461, against yesterday's low quotation of .0449 1/2; cotton gained 15 points and grain prices were steady.

Stock sales for the week ending June 27 totaled $3,411,100 shares; bonds, $58,900,000. Stock sales today totaled 719,800 shares; bonds, $9,341,100.

BURBANK NEWS

BURBANK, June 27.—By a heavy vote the Women's club of Burbank tabled a resolution opposing the transfer of title to the 129 acre Stoughton park from the city of Burbank to the University of Southern California to be used as a university site. The resolution was proposed by Mrs. A. W. Reese.

Diagonal parking will be resumed on San Fernando road, it is expected, as the result of action by the Board of Trustees. A one-hour parking limit in the parking zone is also provided in an ordinance to be submitted.

City Clerk Webster has received a check for $45,000 from Los Angeles county to pay the county's share of the proposed improvement of San Fernando road within the Burbank city limits.

John Adams Pool and G. M. Tadish of Glendale were arrested here on a charge of theft of automobile parts. They will be given a trial before Police Judge Watson. A quantity of accessories, tools and tires was seized by the officers.

Miss Laura Rate, public school teacher, has been elected recording secretary of the Business and Professional Women's club of this city. Mrs. J. Mercedes Furman, former secretary, has resigned.

Will Petition To Alter
Patterson Park Name
An effort to have the name of Patterson park changed to Fremont park, in honor of General John J. Fremont, hero of the Mexican war, who made his headquarters in the old adobe house which still stands on a large estate just north of the park, will be made by residents of north Glendale. They will petition the Glendale Park commission to change the name of the park at its next meeting.

The acreage in and around the park site is rich in historical lore. Here early governors of northern and Southern California are said to have met on the field of battle. When General Fremont directed his campaign against the Navajo government he spent much of his time at the old adobe headquarters. To commemorate the events of California's early history, so intimately joined with this section, a change in the name of the park will be sought.
